A D V E R T I S E M E N T.

I AM as ready as the most rigid Critic, to confess, that nothing can be more simple and inartificial than the plans of the following Dramas. In the construction of them, I have seldom ventured to introduce any persons * of my own creation: still less did I imagine myself at liberty to invent circumstances. I reflected, with awe, that the place whereon I stood was holy ground. All the latitude I permitted myself, was, to make such persons as I selected, act under such circumstances as I found; and express such sentiments as, in my humble judgment, appeared not unnatural to their situations.—Some of the speeches are so long as to retard the action; for I rather aspired after Moral Instruction, than the purity of Dramatic Composition. The very terms of Act and Scene are avoided; because I was unwilling willing to awaken the attention of the Reader to my deficiencies in critical exactness.

* Never, indeed, except in DANIEL, and that of necessity; as the Bible furnishes no more than two persons, Daniel and Darius; and these were not sufficient to carry on the business of the Piece.

It will be thought that I have chosen, perhaps, the least important passage in the eventful Life of David, for the foundation of the Drama which bears his name. Yet even in this, his first exploit, the sacred Historian represents him as exhibiting no mean lesson of modesty, humility, courage, and piety ; virtues not only admirable, but imitable ; and within the reach of every Reader. Many will think, that the introduction of Saul's daughter would have added to the effect of the piece : and I have no doubt, but that it would have made the intrigue more complicated, and more interesting, had this Drama been intended for the Stage. There, all that is tender, and all that is terrible in the passions, find a proper place. But I write for the Young, in whom it will be always time enough to have them awakened ; I write for a class of Readers, to whom it is not easy to accommodate one subject *.

A very judicious and learned friend has remarked, that the Reflections of King Hezekiah breathe rather too much of

* It would not be easy, I believe, to introduce Sacred Tragedies on the English Stage. The scrupulous would think it profane, while the profane would think it dull. Yet the excellent RACINE, in a dissipated country, and a voluptuous court, ventured to adapt the story of Athaliah to the French Theatre ; and it remains to us a glorious monument of its Author's courageous piety, and of the perfection of the Dramatic Art.

of the spirit of Christianity; for that it is scarcely probable he had so settled a belief in the General Judgment. I feel the justness of the objection, without having been able to obviate it. I wished to convey a strong idea of this great leading truth; and have, perhaps improperly, ascribed sentiments to a Jewish monarch, merely because I wished to impress them on the Christian Reader.

The Critic and the Scholar, if any such should honour these pages with their attention, will find ample matter on which to exercise their candor and charity; qualities so natural to genius and to learning, that even the feebleness of my performance will not be able to obstruct the exertion of them in favour of my intention.

The amiable Poet * from whom I have taken my motto, after shewing the superiority of the Sacred, over the Profane Histories (some instances of which I have noticed in my Introduction), concludes with the following remark, which I may apply to myself with more propriety than it was used by the Author:—"I am far from assuming to myself, to have fulfilled the duty of this weighty undertaking; and I shall be ambitious of no other fruit from this weak and imperfect attempt of mine, but the opening of a way to the courage and industry of some other persons, who may be better able to perform it thoroughly and successfully."

* Cowley.

INTRODUCTION.

FOR the sacred energy, which struck
 The harp of Jesse's son ! or for a spark
 Of that celestial flame, which touch'd the lips
 Of bles'd Isaiah* ; when the Seraphim
 With living fire descended, and his soul
 From sin's pollution purg'd ! or 'one faint ray,
 (If human things to heavenly I may join)
 Of that pure spirit, which inflam'd the breast
 Of Milton, God's own poet ! when, retir'd,
 In fair enthusiastic vision rapt,
 The nightly visitant deign'd bless his couch
 With inspiration, such as never flow'd
 From Aganippe's fount, or Acidale !
 Then, when the sacred fire within him burnt,
 He spake, as man or angel might have spoke,
 When man was pure, and angels were his guests.

B

That

* Isaiah, chap. vi.

It will not be.—Nor prophet's burning zeal,
 Nor muse of fire, nor yet to sweep the strings
 With sacred energy to me belongs ;
 Nor with Miltonic hand to touch the chords,
 That wake to ecstasy. From me, alas !
 The secret source of harmony is hid ;
 The magic powers which catch the ravish'd soul
 In melody's sweet maze, and the clear streams
 Which to pure Fancy's yet untasted springs
 Enchanted lead. Of these I nothing know ;
 Yet, all unknowing, dare thy aid invoke,
 Spirit of Truth ! who graciously hast said,
 That none who ask in faith should ask in vain,

You I invoke not now, ye fabled Nine !
 I not invoke you, though you well were sought
 In Greece and Latium, by immortal bards,
 Whose syren song enchant ; and shall enchant,
 Thro' Time's wide-circling round, tho' false their faith,
 And less than human were the gods they sung.
 Tho' false their faith, they taught the best they knew ;
 And, blush, O Christians ! liv'd above their faith.
 They wou'd have bless'd the beam, and hail'd the day,
 Which chaf's'd the moral darkness from their souls.
 Oh ! had their minds receiv'd the clearer ray
 Of true devotion ; they had learn'd to scorn
 Their deities impure, their senseless gods,
 And wild mythology's fantastic maze.

Pure PLATO ! how had thy chaste spirit hail'd
 A faith so fitted to thy moral sense !
 What had'st thou felt, to see the fair romance
 Of high imagination, the bright dream

Of thy pure fancy more than realiz'd !
 O sweet enthusiast ! thou hadst blest a scheme
 Fair, good, and perfect. How had thy rapt soul
 Caught fire, and burnt with a diviner flame !
 For ev'n thy fair idea ne'er conceiv'd
 Such plenitude of love, such boundless bliss,
 As Deity made visible to sense.
 Unhappy BRUTUS ! philosophic mind !
 Great 'midst the errors of the Stoic school !
 How had his kindling spirit joy'd to find
 That his lov'd virtue was no empty name :
 Nor had he met the vision at Philippi ;
 Nor had he sheath'd his bloody dagger's point,
 Or in the breast he lov'd, or in his own.

 They with the gods they worship'd grac'd their song ;
 Our song was grace with gods we disbelieve ;
 The manners we adopt without the creed.
 Shall Fiction only raise poetic flame,
 And shall no altars blaze, O TRUTH ! to thee ?
 Shall falsehood only please, and fable charm ?
 And shall eternal Truth neglected lie ?
 Because immortal, slighted or profan'd ?
 Truth has our rev'rence only, not our love ;
 Our praise, but not our heart. A deity,
 Confess'd, but shunn'd ; acknowledg'd, not ador'd ;
 She comes too near us, and she shines too bright
 Her penetrating beam at once betrays
 What we would hide from others and ourselves.

Why shun to make our duty our delight ?
 Let pleasure be the motive (and allow

That immortality be quite forgot :)
 Where shall we trace, thro' all the page profane,
 A livelier pleasure, and a purer source
 Of innocent delight, than the fair book
 Of holy Truth presents ? For ardent youth,
 The sprightly narrative ; for years mature,
 The moral document, in sober robe
 Of grave philosophy array'd : which all
 Had heard with admiration, had embrac'd
 With rapture ; had the shades of Academe,
 Or the learn'd Porch produc'd it. Then, O then,
 How Wisdom's hidden treasures had been couch'd
 Beneath fair Allegory's graceful veil !

Do not the pow'rs of soul-enchanting song,
 Strong imag'ry, bold figure, every charm
 Of eastern flight sublime, apt metaphor,
 And all the graces in thy lovely train,
 Divine Simplicity ! assemble all
 In Sion's songs, and bold Iсаiah's strain ?

Why shou'd the classic eye delight to trace
 How Pyrrha and the faki'd Theffalian * king
 Restor'd the ruin'd race of lost mankind ;
 Yet turn, incurious, from the patriarch sav'd ;
 The righteous remnant of a delug'd world ?
 Why are we taught, delighted, to recount
 Alcides' labours, yet neglect to learn
 How mighty Samson led a life of toil
 Herculean ? Pain and peril mark'd them both ;

A life

A life eventful, and disastrous death.
 Can all the tales, which Grecian records yield ;
 Can all the names the Roman page records,
 Renown'd for friendship and surpassing love ;
 Can gallant Theseus and his brave compeer ; *
 Orestes, and the partner of his toils ;
 Achates and his friend ; Euryalus,
 And blooming Nisus, pleasant in their lives,
 And undivided by the stroke of death ;
 Can each, can all, a lovelier picture yield
 Of virtuous friendship : can they all present
 A tenderness more touching than the love
 Of Jonathan and David ?—Speak, ye young !
 You who are undebauch'd by fashion's lore,
 And, unsophisticate, from nature judge,
 Say, is your quick attention stronger drawn,
 By wasted Thebes, than Pharaoh's smitten hosts ?
 Or do the vagrant Trojans yield a theme
 More grateful to the eager appetite
 Of young impatience, than the wand'ring tribes,
 By Moses thro' the thirsty desert led ?
 The beauteous * Maid (tho' tender is the tale),
 Whose guiltless blood on Aulis' altar stream'd,
 Smites not the bosom with a softer pang
 Than Jephthah's daughter, doom'd like her to die.

Such are the lovely themes, which court the Muse,
 Scarce yet essay'd in verse. O let me mourn,
 That heav'n-descended song should e'er forget
 Its sacred dignity, and high descent ;
 Should e'er so far its origin debase,

To

* Iphigenia.

To spread corruption's bane, to lull the bad
 With flattery's opiate strain ; to taint the heart
 Of innocence, and silently infuse
 Delicious poison, whose infidious charm
 Feeds the sick mind, and fondly ministers
 Unwholsome pleasure to the fever'd taste ;
 While its fell venom, with malignant pow'r,
 Strikes at the root of virtue, with'ring all
 Her vital energy. Oh! for some balm
 Of sov'reign power, to raise the drooping Muse
 To all the health of virtue! to infuse
 A gen'rous warmth, to rouse an holy pride,
 And give her high conceptions of herself!

For me, eternal Spirit! let thy word
 My path illumine ! O thou compassionate GOD !
 Thou know'st our frame, thou know'st we are but dust.
 From dust a Seraph's zeal thou wilt not ask,
 An Angel's purity. Oh ! as I strive,
 Tho' with a feeble voice and flagging wing,
 A glowing heart, but pow'rless hand, to tell
 The faith of favour'd man to heav'n, to sing
 The ways inscrutable of heav'n to man ;
 May I, by thy celestial guidance led,
 Fix deeper in my heart the truths I sing !
 In my own life transcribe whate'er of good
 To others I propose ! and by thy rule
 Correct th' irregular *, reform the wrong,

Exalt

* *What in me is dark
 Illumine, what is low raise and support.*

PARADISE LOST.

Exalt the low, and brighten the obscure !
Still may I note, how all th' agreeing parts
Of this well-order'd fabric join to frame
One fair, one finish'd, one harmonious whole !
Trace the close links, which form the perfect chain
In beautiful connection ; mark the scale,
Whose nice gradations, with progression true,
For ever rising, end in DEITY !

PARADISE LOST.

J O C H E B E D, M I R I A M.

J O C H E B E D.

WHY was my pray'r accepted ? why did heav'n
In anger hear me, when I ask'd a son ?
Ye dames of Egypt ! happy, happy mothers !
No tyrant robs you of your fondest hopes ;
You are not doom'd to see the babes you bore,
The babes you nurture, bleed before your eyes !
You taste the transports of maternal love,
And never know its anguish ! happy mothers !

C

How

How diff'rent is the lot of thy sad daughters,
 O wretched Israel ! Was it then for this ?
 Was it for this the righteous arm of GOD
 Rescued his chosen people from the jaws
 Of cruel want, by pious Joseph's care ?
 Joseph ! th' elected instrument of heav'n,
 Decreed to save illustrious Abraham's race,
 What time the famine rag'd in Canaan's land.
 Israel, who then was spar'd, must perish now !

Oh thou mysterious pow'r ! who hast involv'd
 Thy wise decrees in darkness, to perplex
 The pride of human wisdom, to confound
 The daring scrutiny, and prove the faith
 Of thy presuming creatures ! clear this doubt ;
 Teach me to trace this maze of Providence ;
 Why save the fathers, if the sons must perish ?

MIRIAM.

Ah me, my mother ! whence these floods of grief ?

JOCHEBED.

My son ! my son ! I cannot speak the rest.
 Ye who have sons can only know my fondness !
 Ye who have lost them, or who fear to lose,
 Can only know my pangs ! none else can guesf them.
 A mother's sorrows cannot be conceiv'd,
 But by a mother—Wherefore am I one ?

MIRIAM.

With many pray'rs thou didst request this son,
 And heav'n has granted him.

JOCHEBED.

JOCHEBED.

O sad estate

Of human wretchedness! so weak is man,
So ignorant and blind, that did not GOD
Sometimes withhold in mercy what we ask,
We shou'd be ruin'd at our own request.

Too well thou know'st, my child, the stern decree
Of Egypt's cruel king, hard-hearted Pharaoh;
" That ev'ry male, of Hebrew mother born,
" Must die." Oh! do I live to tell it thee?
Must die a bloody death! My child, my son,
My youngest born, my darling must be slain!

MIRIAM.

The helpless innocent! and must he die?

JOCHEBED.

No: if a mother's tears, a mother's pray'rs,
A mother's fond precautions can prevail,
He shall not die. I have a thought, my Miriam!
And sure the GOD of mercies, who inspir'd,
Will bleſs the ſecret purpoſe of my foul,
To ſave his precious life.

MIRIAM.

Hop'st thou that Pharaoh—

JOCHEBED.

I have no hope in Pharaoh, much in GOD;
Much in the ROCK OF AGES.

MIRIAM.

Think, O think,
 What perils thou already hast incur'd ;
 And shun the greater, which may yet remain.
 Three months, three dang'rous months thou hast preserv'd
 Thy infant's life, and in thy house conceal'd him !
 Shou'd Pharaoh know !

JOCHEBED.

Oh ! let the tyrant know,
 And feel what he inflicts ! Yes, hear me, Heav'n !
 Send the right aiming thunderbolts——But hush,
 My impious murmurs ! Is it not thy will ;
 Thou, infinite in mercy ? Thou permitt'st
 This seeming evil for some latent good.
 Yes, I will laud thy grace, and blefs thy goodness,
 For what I have, and not arraign thy wisdom
 For what I fear to lose. O, I will blefs thee,
 That Aaron will be spar'd ! that my first-born
 Lives safe and undisturb'd ! that he was given me
 Before this impious persecution rag'd !

MIRIAM.

And yet who knows, but the fell tyrant's rage
 May reach his precious life ?

JOCHEBED.

I fear for him,
 For thee, for all. A doating parent lives
 In many lives ; thro' many a nerve she feels ;
 From child to child the quick affections spread,
 For ever wand'ring, yet for ever fix'd.

Nor does division weaken, nor the force
 Of constant operation e'er exhaust
 Parental love. All other passions change,
 With changing circumstances ; rise or fall,
 Dependant on their object ; claim returns ;
 Live on reciprocation, and expire
 Unfed by hope. A mother's fondness reigns
 Without a rival, and without an end.

MIRIAM.

But say what Heav'n inspires, to save thy son ?

JOCHEBED.

Since the dear fatal morn which gave him birth,
 I have revolv'd in my distracted mind
 Each means to save his life : and many a thought,
 Which fondness prompted, prudence has oppos'd
 As perilous and rash. With these poor hands
 I've fram'd a little ark of slender reeds ;
 With pitch and slime I have secur'd the sides.
 In this frail cradle I intend to lay
 My little helpless infant, and expose him
 Upon the banks of Nile.

MIRIAM.

'Tis full of danger.

JOCHEBED.

'Tis danger to expose, and death to keep him.

MIRIAM.

Yet, Oh ! reflect. Shou'd the fierce crocodile.
 The native and the tyrant of the NILE.
 Seize the defenceless infant !

JOCHEBED.

JOCHEBED.

Oh, forbear!

Spare my fond heart. Yet not the crocodile,
Nor all the deadly monsters of the deep,
To me are half so terrible as PHARAOH,
That heathen king, that royal murderer!

MIRIAM.

Shou'd he escape, which yet I dare not hope,
Each sea-born monster; yet the winds and waves
He cannot 'scape.

JOCHEBED.

Know, GOD is ev'ry where;
Not to one narrow, partial spot confin'd;
No, not to chosen ISRAEL: He extends
Thro' all the vast infinitude of space.
At his command the furious tempests rise,
The blasting of the breath of his displeasure:
He tells the world of waters, when to roar;
And at his bidding, winds and seas are calm.
In HIM, not in an arm of flesh, I trust;
In HIM, whose promise never yet has fail'd,
I place my confidence.

MIRIAM.

What must I do?
Command thy daughter, for thy words have wak'd
An holy boldness in my youthful breast.

JOCHEBED.

Go then, my MIRIAM! go, and take the infant:
Buried in harmless slumbers there he lies:

Let

Let me not see him—spare my heart that pang.
 Yet sure, one little look may be indulg'd,
 One kiss—perhaps the last. No more, my soul !
 That fondness wou'd be fatal—I shou'd keep him.
 I cou'd not doom to death the babe I clasp'd :
 Did ever mother kill her sleeping boy ?
 I dare not hazard it—The task be thine.
 Oh ! do not wake my child ; remove him softly ;
 And gently lay him on the river's brink.

MIRIAM.

Did those magicians, whom the sons of EGYPT
 Consult, and think all-potent, join their skill,
 And was it great as EGYPT's sons believe ;
 Yet all their secret wizard arts combin'd,
 To save this little ark of Bulrushes,
 Thus fearfully expos'd, cou'd not effect it.
 Their spells, their incantations, and dire charms
 Cou'd not preserve it.

JOCHED.

Know, this ark is charm'd
 With spells, which impious EGYPT never knew ;
 With invocations to the living GOD,
 I twisted every slender reed together,
 And with a pray'r did every ozier weave.

MIRIAM.

I go.

JOCHED.

Yet e'er thou go'st, observe me well.
 When thou hast laid him in his watry bed,

O leave

O leave him not; but at a distance wait,
 And mark what Heav'n's high will determines for him.
 Lay him among the flags on yonder beach,
 Just where the royal gardens meet the Nile.
 I dare not follow him, Suspicion's eye
 Wou'd note my wild demeanor; MIRIAM, yes,
 The mother's fondness wou'd betray the child.
 Farewell! GOD of my fathers, Oh protect him!

MOSES IN THE BULRUSHES.

P A R T II.

SCENE, on the Banks of the NILE.

Enter MIRIAM, after having deposited the child.

YES, I have laid him in his watry bed,
 His watry grave, I fear! — I tremble still;
 It was a cruel task — still I must weep!
 But ah! my mother, who shall sooth thy griefs?
 The flags and sea-weeds will awhile sustain
 Their precious load, but it must sink ere long!
 Sweet babe, farewell! Yet think not I will leave thee;
 No, I will watch thee, till the greedy waves

Devour

Devour thy little bark : I'll sit me down,
 And sing to thee, sweet babe ! Thou canst not hear ;
 But 'twill amuse me, while I watch thy fate.

[She sits down on a bank, and sings.

S O N G.

I.

THOU, who canst make the feeble strong,
 O GOD of Israel, hear my song !
 Not mine such notes as Egypt's daughters raise ;
 'Tis thee, O GOD of Hosts, I strive to praise.

II.

Ye winds, the servants of the LORD,
 Ye waves, obedient to his word,
 O spare the babe committed to your trust ;
 And Israel shall confess, the LORD is just !

III.

Tho' doom'd to find an early grave,
 This helpless infant thou canst save ;
 And he, whose death's decreed by Pharaoh's hand,
 May rise a prophet to redeem the land.

[She rises, and looks out.

Who moves this way? of royal port she seems;
 Perhaps sent hither by the hand of Heav'n,
 To prop the falling house of Levi.——— Soft!
 I'll listen unperceiv'd, these trees will hide me.

[She stands behind.

Enter the PRINCESS of EGYPT, attended by a train of Ladies.

PRINCESS.

No farther, Virgins; here I mean to rest,
 To taste the ple'ant coolness of the breeze;
 Perhaps to bathe in this translucent stream.
 Did not our holy law * enjoin th' ablution
 Frequent and regular; it still were needful,
 To mitigate the fervors of our clime.
 MELITA, stay—the rest at distance wait.

[They all go out, except one.

The PRINCESS looks out.

Sure, or I much mistake, or I perceive,
 Upon the sedgy margin of the Nile
 A chest; entangled in the reeds it seems;
 Discern'st thou ought?

MELITA.

Something, but what I know not.

PRINCESS.

* The ancient Egyptians used to wash their bodies four times every twenty-four hours.

P R I N C E S S.

Go and examine, what this sight may mean.

[Exit Maid.]

M I R I A M, behind.

O blest, beyond my hopes! he is discover'd;
 My brother will be fav'd! who is this stranger?
 Ah! 'tis the Princess, cruel Pharaoh's daughter.
 If she resemble her inhuman Sire,
 She must be cruel too; yet fame reports her
 Most merciful and mild:—I'll mark th' event,
 And pray that Heav'n may prompt her to preserve him.

Re-enter M E L I T A.

P R I N C E S S.

Hast thou discover'd what the vessel is?

M E L I T A:

Oh, Princess, I have seen the strangest sight!
 Within the vessel lies a sleeping babe,
 A fairer infant have I never seen!

P R I N C E S S.

Who knows, but some unhappy Hebrew woman
 Has thus expos'd her infant, to evade
 The stern decree of my too cruel Sire.
 Unhappy mothers! oft my heart has bled
 In secret anguish o'er your slaughter'd sons,

M E L I T A.

Shou'd this be one, my Princess knows the danger.

PRINCESS.

No danger shou'd deter from acts of mercy.

MIRIAM, behind.

A thoufand blessings on her princely head !

PRINCESS.

Too much the sons of Jacob have endur'd
 From royal Pharaoh's unrelenting hate ;
 Too much our houfe has crush'd their alien race.
 Is't not enough, that cruel task-masters
 Grind them by hard oppression and stern bondage ?
 Is't not enough, my father owes his greatness,
 His palaces, his fanes magnificent ;
 Those structures which the world with wonder views,
 To the hard toils of much insulted Israel ?
 To them his growing cities owe their splendor,
 Their labours built fair Ramefes and Python ;
 And now, at length, his still increasing rage
 To iron bondage adds the guilt of murder.
 And shall this little helpless infant perish ?
 Forbid it, justice ; and forbid it, heav'n !

MELITA.

I know, thy royal father fears the strength
 Of this still growing race, who flourish more
 The more they are oppres'd ; he dreads their numbers.

PRINCESS.

Apis forbid ! Pharaoh afraid of Israel !
 Yet shou'd this outcast race, this hapless people
 E'er grow to such a formidable greatness :

(Which

(Which all the gods avert, whom Egypt worships)
 This infant's life can never serve their cause,
 Nor can his single death prevent their greatness.

MELITA.

I know not that: by weakest instruments
 Sometimes are great events produc'd; this child
 Perhaps may live to serve his upstart race
 More than an host.

PRINCESS.

How ill does it beseem
 Thy tender years, and gentle womanhood,
 To steel thy breast to Pity's sacred touch!
 So weak, so unprotected is our sex,
 So constantly expos'd, so very helpless;
 That did not Heav'n itself enjoin compassion,
 Yet human policy shou'd make us kind,
 Lest we shou'd need the pity we refuse.
 Yes, I will save him—lead me to the place;
 And from the feeble rushes we'll remove
 'The little ark, which cradles this poor babe.

[The Princess and her Maid go out.

MIRIAM comes forward.

How poor were words, to speak my boundless joy!
 The Princess will protect him; bless her, Heav'n!

With what impatient steps she seeks the shore!
 Now she approaches where the ark is laid!
 With what compassion, with what angel-sweetness,

She

She bends to look upon the infant's face !
 She takes his little hand in her's—he wakes—
 She smiles upon him—hark ! alas, he cries ;
 Weep on, sweet babe ! weep on, till thou hast touch'd—
 Each chord of pity, waken'd every sense
 Of melting sympathy, and stolen her soul !
 She takes him in her arms—O lovely Princess !
 How goodness heightens beauty ! now she clasps him
 With fondness to her heart, she gives him now
 With tender caution to her damsel's arms :
 She points her to the palace, and again
 This way the Princess bends her gracious steps ;
 The virgin train retire, and bear the child.

Re-enter the P R I N C E S S.

P R I N C E S S.

Did ever innocence and infant-beauty
 Plead with such dumb but powerful eloquence ?
 If I, a stranger, feel these soft emotions,
 What must the mother who expos'd him feel !
 Go, fetch a woman of the Hebrew race,
 That she may nurse the babe ; and, by her garb,
 Lo such a one is here !

M I R I A M.

Princess, all hail !
 Forgive the bold intrusion of thy servant,
 Who stands a charm'd spectator of thy goodness.

P R I N C E S S.

I have redeem'd an infant from the waves,
 Whom I intend to nurture as mine own.

MIRIAM.

MIRIAM.

My transports will betray me! [Aside.] Gen'rous
Princefs!

PRINCESS.

Know'ſt thou a matron of the Hebrew race,
To whom I may confide him?

MIRIAM.

Well I know

A prudent matron of the house of Levi;
Her name is Jochebed, the wife of Amram;
Gen'le she is, and fam'd throughout her tribe
For soft humanity; full well I know
That she will rear him with a mother's love.
[Aside.] Oh truly spoke! a mother's love indeed!
To her despairing arms I mean to give
This precious trust; the nurse shall be the mother!

PRINCESS.

With speed conduct this matron to the palace.
Yes, I will raise him up to princely greatness,
And he shall be my son; his name be Moses,
For I have drawn him from the perilous flood.

[They go out. She kneels.

Thou Great Unseen! thou caufest gentle deeds.
And smil'ſt on what thou caufest; thus I bleſſ thee,
That thou didſt deign consult the tender make
Of yielding human hearts, when thou ordain'dſt
Humanity a virtue! Didſt incline
That nat'ral bias of the foul to mercy,
Then mad'ſt that mercy duty! Gracious Pow'r!

Mad'ſt

Mad'st the keen rapture exquisite as right :
 Beyond the joys of sense ; as pleasure sweet ;
 As reason constant, and as instinct strong !

MOSES IN THE BULRUSHES.

P A R T III.

 Enter JOCHEBED.

I'VE almost reach'd the place—with cautious steps
 I must approach to where the ark is laid,
 Lest from the royal gardens any spy me.
 —Poor babe ! ere this, the pressing calls of hunger
 Have broke thy short repose ; the chilling waves,
 Perhaps, have drench'd thy little shiv'ring limbs.
 What—what must he have suffer'd !—No one sees me :
 But soft, does no one listen ?—Ah ! how hard,
 How very hard for fondness to be prudent !
 Now is the moment, to embrace and feed him.

[She looks out.
 Where's

Where's Miriam? she has left her little charge,
 Perhaps through fear, perhaps she was detected.
 How wild is thought! how terrible conjecture!
 A mother's fondness framers a thousand fears,
 And shapes unreal evils into being.

[She looks towards the river.

Ah me! where is he? soul-distracting sight!
 He is not there—he's lost, he's gone, he's drown'd!
 Toss'd by each beating surge my infant floats;
 Cold, cold and wat'ry is thy grave, my child!
 O no—I see the ark—Transporting sight;

[She goes towards it.

What do I see? Alas, the ark is empty!
 The casket's left, the precious gem is gone!
 You spar'd him, pitying spirits of the deep!
 But vain your mercy; some infatiate beast,
 Cruel as Pharaoh, took the life you spar'd—
 And I shall never, never see him more!

Enter MIRIAM.

JOCHEBED.

Come, and lament with me thy brother's loss!

MIRIAM.

Come, and adore with me the GOD of Jacob!

JOCHEBED.

Miriam—the child is dead!

MIRIAM.

He lives, he lives!

JOCHEBED.

Impossible: Oh! do not mock my grief!
See'st thou that empty vessel?

MIRIAM.

From that vessel

Th' Egyptian Princess took him.

JOCHEBED.

Pharaoh's daughter?

Then still he will be slain.

MIRIAM.

His life is safe;

For know, she means to rear him as her own.

JOCHEBED.

[Falls on her knees in rapture.

To GOD the LORD, the glory be ascrib'd!
Oh magnified for ever be thy might,
Who mercy in a Heathen's heart can't plant,
And from the depth of evil bring forth good!

[She rises.

MIRIAM.

O blest event, beyond our warmest hopes.

JOCHEBED.

What! shall my son be nurtur'd in a court,
In princely grandeur bred? taught every art,
And every wond'rous science Egypt knows?
Yet ah! I tremble, Miriam; shou'd he learn,
With Egypt's polish'd arts, her baneful faith!

O worse

O worse exchange for death! Yes, shou'd he learn
 In yon' proud palace to disown his hand
 Who thus has fav'd him: shou'd he e'er embrace
 (As sure he will, if bred in Pharaoh's court)
 The gross idolatries which Egypt owns,
 Her graven images, her brutish gods:
 Then shall I wish he had not been preserv'd,
 To shame his fathers, and deny his faith.

MIRIAM.

Then, to dispel thy fears, and crown thy joy,
 Hear farther wonders—Know, the gen'rous Princess
 To thine own care thy darling child commits.

JOCHEBED.

Speak, while my joy will give me time to listen!

MIRIAM.

By her commission'd, thou behold'st me here,
 To seek a matron of the Hebrew race,
 To nurse him; thou, my mother, art that matron.—
 I said, I knew thee well; that thou wou'dst rear him
 Ev'n with a mother's fondness; she, who bare him,
 (I told the Princess) could not love him more.

JOCHEBED.

Fountain of Mercy! whose pervading eye
 Beholds the heart, and sees what passes there,
 Accept my thoughts for thanks! I have no words—
 How poor were human language to express
 My gratitude, my wonder, and my joy!

56 MOSES IN THE BULRUSHES.

MIRIAM.

Yes, thou shalt pour into his infant mind
The purest precepts of the purest faith.

JOCHED.

O! I will fill his tender soul with virtue,
And warm his bosom with devotion's flame!
Aid me, celestial Spirit! with thy grace,
And be my labours with thy influence crown'd:
Without it they were vain. Then, then, my Miriam,
When he is furnish'd, 'gainst the evil day,
With God's whole armour*, girt with sacred truth,
And as a breast-plate, wearing righteousness,
Arm'd with the spirit of God, the shield of Faith,
And with the helmet of salvation crown'd,
Inur'd to watching, and dispos'd to pray'r;
Then may I send him to a dangerous court,
And safely trust him in a perilous world,
Too full of tempting snares and fond delusions!

MIRIAM.

May bounteous Heav'n, thy pious cares reward!

JOCHED.

O Amram! O my husband! when thou com'st,
Wearied at night, to rest thee from the toils
Impos'd by haughty Pharaoh; what a tale
Have I to tell thee! yes——thy darling son
Was lost, and is restor'd; was dead, and lives!

MIRIAM.

M I R I A M .

How joyful shall we spend the live-long night
 In praises to JEHOVAH ; who thus mocks
 All human foresight, and converts the means
 Of seeming ruin into great deliverance !

J O C H E B E D .

Had not my child been doom'd to such strange perils,
 As a fond mother trembles to recall ;
 He had not been preserv'd.

M I R I A M .

And mark still farther :

Had he been sav'd by any other hand,
 He had been still expos'd to equal ruin.

J O C H E B E D .

Then let us join to bless the hand of Heaven,
 That this poor outcast of the house of Israel,
 Condemn'd to die by Pharaoh, kept in secrect
 By my advent'rous fondness ; then expos'd
 Ev'n by that very fondness which conceal'd him,
 Is now, to fill the wondrous round of mercy,
 Preserv'd from perishing by Pharaoh's daughter,
 Sav'd by the very hand which fought to crush him !

Wise and unsearchable are all thy ways,
 Thou GOD of MERCIES ! — Lead me to my child !

DAVID AND GOLIATH.

A

SACRED DRAMA.

PART I.

O bienheureux mille fois,
 L'Enfant que le Seigneur aime,
 Que de bonne heure entend sa voix,
 Et que ce Dieu digne instruire lui-même!
 Loin du monde élevé ; de tous les dons des Cieux,
 Il est orné dès sa naissance ;
 Et du méchant l'abord contagieux
 N'altere point son innocence. — ATHALIE.

SCENE, à Shepherd's Tent on a Plain.

DAVID, under a spreading tree, plays on his harp, and sings.

I.

GREAT Lord of all things ! Pow'r divine !
 Breathe on this erring heart of mine
 Thy grace serene and pure ;
 Defend my frail, my erring youth,
 And teach me this important truth,
 The humble are secure.

II.

II.

Teach me to bless my lowly lot
 Confin'd to this paternal cot,
 Remote from regal state ;
 Content to court the cooling glade,
 Inhale the breeze, enjoy the shade,
 And love my humble fate.

III.

No anxious vigils here I keep,
 No dreams of gold distract my sleep,
 Nor lead my heart astray ;
 Nor blasting Envy's tainted gale
 Pollutes the pleasures of the vale,
 To yex my harmless day.

IV.

Yon' tow'r, which rears its head so high,
 And bids defiance to the sky,
 Invites the hostile winds :
 Yon' branching oak extending wide,
 Provokes destruction by its pride,
 And courts the fall it finds.

V.

Then let me shun th' ambitious deed,
 And all the dangerous paths which lead
 To honour's falsely won :
 Lord ! in thy sure protection blest,
 Submissive will I ever rest,
 And may thy will be done !

[He lays down his harp, and rises.

DAVID.

DAVID.

This Shepherd's life were dull and tasteless all,
 Without the charm of soothing song or harp :
 With it, not undelightful is the haunt
 Of wood, or lonely grove, or rufset plain,
 Made vocal by the Muse. With this lov'd harp,
 This daily solace of my cares, I sooth'd
 The melancholy monarch, when he lay,
 Smit by the chill and spirit-quenching hand
 Of blank despair. GOD of my fathers! hear me :
 Here I devote my harp, my verse, myself,
 To thy blest service! gladly to proclaim
 Glory to GOD on high, on earth good-will
 To man ; to pour my grateful soul before thee ;
 To sing thy pow'r, thy wisdom, and thy love,
 And every gracious attribute : to paint
 The charms of heav'n-born virtue ! So shall I,
 (Tho with long interval of worth) aspire
 To imitate the work of saints above,
 Of Cherub and of Seraphini. My heart,
 My talents, all I am, and all I have,
 Is thine, O Father ! Gracious LORD, accept
 The humble dedication ! Offer'd gifts
 Of slaughter'd bulls, and goats sacrificial,
 Thou hast refus'd : but lo ! I come, O LORD,
 To do thy will ! the living sacrifice
 Of an obedient heart I lay before thee !
 This humble offering more shall please thee, LORD !
 Than horned bullocks, ceremonial rites,
 New moons, appointed passovers, and fasts !
 Yet those I too will keep ; but not instead
 Of holiness substantial, inward worth ;

As commutation cheap for pious deeds,
 And purity of life. But as the types
 Of better things ; as fair external signs
 Of inward holiness and secret truth.

But see, my father, good old Jesse comes !
 To cheer the setting evening of whose life,
 Content, a simple shepherd here I dwell,
 Tho' Israel is in arms , and royal Saul
 Encamp'd in yonder field, defies Philistia.

JESSE, DAVID.

JESSE.

Blest be the gracious Pow'r, who gave my age
 To boast a son like thee ! Thou art the staff
 Which props my bending years, and makes me bear
 The heavy burthen of declining age
 With fond complacence. How unlike thy fate,
 O venerable Eli ! But two sons,
 But only two, to gild the dim remains
 Of life's departing day, and bless thy age,
 And both were curses to thee ! Witness, Heav'n !
 In all the tedious catalogue of pains
 Humanity turns o'er, if there be one
 So terrible to human tenderneſs,
 As an unnatural child !

DAVID.

O, my lov'd father !

Long mayſt thou live, in years and honours rich ;
 To taste, and to communicate the joys,
 The thouſand fond, endearing charities

Of

Of tendernes domestic ; Nature's best
 And loveliest gift, with which she well atones
 The niggard boon of fortune.

J E S S E.

O, my son !

Of all the graces which adorn thy youth,
 I, with a father's fondness, must commend
 Thy tried humility. For tho' the Seer
 Pour'd on thy chosen head the sacred oil,
 In sign of future greatness, in sure pledge
 Of highest dignity ; yet here thou dwell'st,
 Content with toil, and careles of repose ;
 And (harder still for an ingenuous mind)
 Content to be obscure : content to watch,
 With careful eye, thine humble father's flock !
 O, earthly emblem of celestial things !
 So Israel's shepherd watches o'er his fold :
 The weak ones in his fost'ring bosom bears ;
 And gently leads, in his sustaining hand,
 The feeble ones with young.

D A V I D.

Know'st thou, my father,

Ought from the field ? for tho' so near the camp,
 Tho' war's proud ensigns stream on yonder plain,
 And all Philistia's swarming hosts encamp,
 Oppos'd to royal Saul, beneath whose banners
 My brothers lift the spear ; I have not left
 My fleecy charge, by thee committed to me,
 To learn the present fortune of the war.

DAVID AND GOLIATH.

J E S S E.

And wisely hast thou done. Thrice happy realm,
Who shall submit one day to his command
Who can so well obey! Obedience leads
To certain honours. Not the tow'ring wing
Of eagle-plum'd ambition mounts so surely
To Fortune's highest summit, as odedience.

[A distant sound of trumpets.

But why that sudden ardour, O my son?
That trumpet's sound (tho' so remote its voice,
We hardly catch the echo as it dies).
Has rous'd the mantling crimson in thy cheek:
Kindled the martial spirit in thine eye,
And my young shepherd feels an hero's fire!

D A V I D.

Thou hast not told the posture of the war,
And much my beating bosom pants to hear.

J E S S E.

Uncertain is the fortune of the field.
I tremble for thy brothers, thus expos'd
To constand peril, nor for them alone,
Does the quick feeling agonize my heart.
I too lament, that desolating war
Hangs his fell banner o'er my native land,
Belov'd Jerusalem! O war, what art thou?
After the brightest conquest, what remains
Of all thy glories? For the vanquish'd, chains
For the proud victor, what? Alas! to reign
O'er desolated nations! a drear waste,
By one man's crime, by one man's lust of pow'r,
Unpeopled! Naked plains and ravag'd fields

Succeed to smiling harvests, and the fruits
 Of peaceful olive, luscious fig and vine!
 Here, rifled temples are the cavern'd dens
 Of savage beasts, or haunt of birds obscene.
 There, populous cities blacken in the sun,
 And, in the gen'ral wreck, proud palaces
 Lie undistinguish'd, save by the dun smoke
 Of recent conflagration. When the song
 Of dear-bought joy, with many a triumph swell'd,
 Salutes the victor's ear, and sooths his pride;
 How is the grateful harmony profan'd
 With the sad dissonance of virgins' cries,
 Who mourn their brothers slain! Of matrons hoar,
 Who clasp their wither'd hands, and fondly ask,
 With iteration shrill, their slaughter'd sons!
 How is the laurel's verdure stain'd with blood,
 And soil'd with widows' tears!

DAVID.

Thrice mournful truth!

Yet when our country's rights, her sacred laws,
 Her holy faith are scorn'd and trampled on,
 Then, then religion calls; then God himself
 Commands us to defend his injur'd name.
 'Twere then inglorious weakness, mean self-love,
 To lie inactive, when the stirring voice
 Of the shrill trumpet wakes to desp'rate deeds;
 Nor with heroic valour boldly dare
 Th' idolatrous heathen bands, ev'n to the death.

JESSE.

God and thy country claim the life they gave,
 No other cause can sanctify resentment.

DAVID.

DAVID.

Sure virtuous friendship is a noble cause !
 O were the princely Jonathan in danger,
 How wou'd I die, well-pleas'd, in his defence !
 When ('twas long since, then but a stripling boy)
 I made short sojourn in his father's palace,
 (At first to sooth his troubled mind with song,
 His armour-bearer next;) I well remember
 The gracious bounties of the gallant prince.
 How wou'd he sit, attentive to my strain ;
 While to my harp I sung the harmless joys,
 Which crown a shepherd's life ! How wou'd he cry,
 'Bles'd youth, far happier in thy native worth,
 Far richer in the talent Heav'n has lent thee,
 Than if a crown hung o'er thy anxious brow.
 The jealous monarch mark'd our growing friendship ;
 And as my favour grew with those about him,
 His royal bounty lessen'd, till at length,
 For Bethl'hem's safer shades I left the court.
 Nor wou'd these alter'd features now be known,
 Grown into manly strength ; nor this chang'd form,
 Enlarg'd with age, and clad in russet weed.

J E S S E.

I have employment for thee, my lov'd son,
 Will please thy active spirit. Go, my boy !
 Haste to the field of war, to yonder camp,
 Where, in the vale of Elah, mighty Saul
 Commands the hosts of Israel. Greet thy brothers ;
 Observe their deeds ; note their demeanor well ;
 And mark if wisdom on their actions waits.
 Bear to them too (for well the waste of war
 Will make it needful) such plain healthful viands,

As furnish out our frugal shepherd's meal.
 And to the valiant captain of their host,
 Present such rural gifts as suit our fortune.
 Heap'd on the board within my tent thou'l find them.

D A V I D .

With joy I'll bear thy presents to my brothers ;
 And to the valiant captain of their host,
 The rural gifts thy gratitude assigns him.
 What transport to behold the tented field,
 The pointed spear, the blaze of shields and arms,
 And all the proud accoutrements of war !
 But, oh ! far dearer transport would it yield me,
 Cou'd this right arm alone avenge the cause
 Of injur'd Israel, and preserve the lives
 Of guiltless thousands, doom'd perhaps to bleed !

J E S S E .

Let not thy youth be dazzled, O my son !
 With deeds of bold emprise, as valour only
 Were virtue ; and the gentle arts of peace,
 Of truth and justice, were not worth thy care.
 When thou shalt view the splendors of the war,
 The gay caparison, the burnish'd shield,
 The plume-crown'd helmet, and the glitt'ring spear,
 Scorn not the humble virtues of the shade ;
 Nor think that Heav'n views only with applause
 The active merit, and the busy toil
 Of heroes, statesmen, and the bustling sons
 Of public care. These have their just reward
 In wealth, in honours, and the well-earn'd fame
 Their high achievements bring. 'Tis in this view,
 That virtue is her proper recompence.

Wealth,

Wealth, as its natural consequence, will flow
 From industry; toil with success is crown'd :
 From splendid actions high renown will spring. •
 Such is the usual course of human things.
 For Wisdom Infinite permits, that thus
 Effects to causes be proportionate,
 And nat'ral ends by nat'ral means atchiev'd.
 But in the future estimate, which Heav'n
 Will make of things terrestrial, know, my son,
 That no inferior blessing is reserv'd
 For the mild passive virtues; meek Content,
 Heroic Self-denial, nobler far
 Than all th' achievements noisy Fame reports,
 When her shrill trump proclaims the proud success
 Which desolates the nations. But, on earth,
 These are not always fortunate; because
 Eternal Justice keeps them for the bliss
 Of final recompence, for the dread day
 Of gen'ral retribution. O my son !
 The ostentatious virtues, which still press
 For notice, and for praise; the brilliant deeds,
 Which live but in the eye of observation,
 These have their meed at once. But there's a joy,
 To the fond votaries of Fame unknown;
 To hear the still small voice of conscience speak
 Its whisp'ring plaudit to the silent soul.
 Heav'n notes the sigh afflicted Goodness heaves;
 Hears the low plaint by human ear unheard,
 And from the cheek of patient Sorrow wipes
 The tear, by mortal eye unseen or scorn'd.

DAVID.

As Hermon's dews their grateful freshness shed,
 And cheer the herbage, and the flow'rs renew ;
 So do thy words a quick'ning balm infuse,
 And grateful sink in my delighted soul.

JESSE.

Go then, my child ! and may the Gracious GOD,
 Who bless'd our fathers, bless my much-lov'd son !

DAVID.

Farewell, my father ! and of this be sure,
 That not a precept from thy honour'd lips
 Shall fall, by me unnoticed ; not one grace,
 One venerable virtue, which adorns
 Thy daily life, but I, with watchful care,
 And due observance, will in mine transplant it.

[Exit DAVID.]

JESSE.

He's gone ! and still my aching eyes pursue,
 And strain their orbs still longer to behold him.
 Oh ! who can tell, when I may next embrace him ?
 Who can declare the counsels of the Lord ?
 Or when the moment pre-ordain'd by Heav'n
 To fill his great designs may come ? This son,
 This blessing of my age, is set apart
 For high exploits ; the chosen instrument
 Of all-disposing Heav'n for mighty deeds.
 Still I recal the day, and to my mind
 The scene is ever present ; when the Seer,
 Illustrious Samuel, to the humble shades
 Of Bethlehem came, pretending sacrifice,
 To screen his errand from the jealous king.

He sanctify'd us first, me, and my sons ;
For sanctity increas'd should still precede
Increase of dignity. When he declar'd
He came, commission'd from on High, to find,
Among the sons of Jesse, Israel's king ;
Astonishment entranc'd my wond'ring soul.
Yet was it not a wild tumultuous bliss ;
Such rash delight as promis'd honours yield
To light, vain minds ; no, 'twas a doubtful joy
Chastis'd by tim'rous virtue, lest a gift
So splendid, and so dang'rous, might destroy
Him it was meant to raise. My eldest born,
Young Eliab, tall of stature, I presented ;
But GOD, who judges not by outward form,
But tries the heart, forbad the holy prophet
To chuse my eldest born. For Saul, he said,
Gave proof, that fair proportion, and the grace
Of limb or feature, ill repaid the want
Of virtue. All my other sons alike
By Samuel were rejected : till, at last,
On my young boy, on David's chosen head,
The prophet pour'd the consecrated oil.
Yet ne'er did pride elate him, ne'er did scorn
For his rejected elders swell his heart.
Not in such gentle charity to him
His haughtier brothers live : but all he pardons.
To meditation, and to humble toil,
To pray'r, and praise devoted, here he dwells.
O may the Graces which adorn retreat,
One day delight a court ! record his name
With saints and prophets, dignify his race,
Instruct mankind, and sanctify a world !

DAVID AND GOLIATH.

P A R T II.

S C E N E, The Camp.

ELIAB, ABINADAB, ABNER, ISRAELITES.

ELIAB.

STILL is the event of this long war uncertain:
Still do the adverse hosts, on either side,
Protract, with ling'ring caution, an encounter,
Which must to one be fatal.

ABINADAB.

This descent,

Thus to the very confines of our land,
Proclaims the sanguine hope that fires the foe.
In Ephes-dammim boldly they encamp:
Th' uncircumcis'd Philistines pitch their tents
On Judah's hallow'd earth.

G 2

ELIAB.

ELIA B.

Full forty days.

Has the insulting giant, proud Goliath,
 The champion of Philistia, fiercely challeng'd
 Some Israelitish foe. But who so vain
 To dare such force unequal? who so bent
 On sure destruction, to accept his terms;
 And rush on death, beneath the giant force,
 Of his enormous bulk?

ABINADAB.

'Tis near the time,

When, in th' adjacent valley which divides
 Th' opposing armies, he is wont to make
 His daily challenge.

ELIA B.

Much I marvel, brother!

No greetings from our father reach our ears.
 With ease and plenty blefs'd, he little reck's
 The daily hardships which his sons endure.
 But see! behold his darling son approaches!

ABINADAB.

How, David here? whence this unlook'd-for guest?

ELIA B.

A spy upon our actions; sent no doubt,
 To scan our deeds, with beardless gravity
 Affecting wisdom; to observe each word,
 To magnify the venial faults of youth,
 And construe harmless mirth to foul offence.

Enter DAVID.

DAVID.

All hail, my dearest brothers !

ELIA B.

Means thy greeting

True love, or arrogant scorn ?

DAVID.

Oh, most true love !

Sweet as the precious ointment, which bedew'd
The sacred head of Aaron, and descended
Upon his hallow'd, vest ; so sweet, my brothers,
Is fond fraternal amity ; such love
As my touch'd bosom feels at your approach.

ELIA B.

Still that fine glozing speech, those holy faws,
And all that trick of studied sanctity,
Of smooth-turn'd periods, and trim eloquence,
Which charms thy doating father. But confess,
What dost thou here ? Is it to foothe thy pride,
And gratify thy vain desire to roam,
In quest of pleasures unallow'd ? or com'st thou,
A willing spy, to note thy brother's deeds ?
Where haft thou left those few poor straggling sheep ?
More suited to thy ignorance and years
The care of those, than here to wander idly.
Why cam'st thou hither ?

DAVID.

DAVID.

Is there not a cause ?

Why that displeasure kindling in thine eye,
 My angry brother ? why those taunts unkind ?
 Not idly bent on sport ; not to delight
 Mine eye with all this gay parade of war ;
 To gratify a roving appetite,
 Or fondly to indulge a curious ear
 With any tale of rumour, am I come :
 But to approve myself a loving brother.
 I bring the blessing of your aged sire.
 With gifts of such plain cates, and rural viands,
 As suit his frugal fortune. Tell me now,
 Where the bold captain of your host encamps ?

ELIA B.

Wherefore enquire ? what boots it thee to know ?
 Behold him there : great Abner, fam'd in arms.

DAVID.

I bring thee, mighty Abner, from my father,
 (A simple shepherd swain in yonder vale)
 Such humble gifts as shepherd swains bestow.

ABNER.

Thanks, gentle youth ! with pleasure I receive
 The grateful off'ring. Why does thy quick eye
 Thus wander with unfatisfied delight ?

DAVID.

New as I am to all the trade of war,
 Each sound has novelty ; each thing I see
 Attracts attention ; every noise I hear

Awakes confus'd emotions ; indistinct,
 Yet full of charming tumult, sweet distraction.
 'Tis all delightful hurry ! Oh ! the joy
 Of young ideas painted on the mind,
 In the warm glowing colours fancy spreads
 On objects not yet known, when all is new,
 And all is lovely ! Ah ! what warlike sound
 Salutes my ravish'd ear ?

[Sound of trumpet.

A B N E R.

'Tis the Philistine,
 Proclaiming, by his herald, through the ranks,
 His near approach. Each morning he repeats
 His challenge to our bands.

D A V I D.

Ha ! what Philistine ?

Who is he ?

E L I A B.

Wherefore ask ? for thy raw youth,
 And rustic ignorance, 'twere fitter learn
 Some rural art ; some secret to prevent
 Contagion in thy flocks ; some better means
 To save their fleece immaculate. These mean arts,
 Of soft inglorious peace, far better suit
 Thy low obscurity, than thus to seek
 High things, pertaining to exploits of arms.

D A V I D.

Urg'd as I am, I will not answer thee.
 Who conquers his own spirit, O my brother !

He

He is the only conqueror.—Again
 That shout mysterious! Pray you, tell me who
 This proud Philistine is, who sends defiance
 To Israel's hardy chieftains?

A B N E R.

Stranger youth!

So lovely and so mild is thy demeanour,
 So gentle, and so patient; such the air
 Of candor and of courage, which adorns
 Thy blooming features, thou hast won my love;
 And I will tell thee.

D A V I D.

Mighty Abner! thanks!

A B N E R.

Thrice, and no more, he sounds, his daily rule.
 This man of war, this champion of Philistia,
 Is of the sons of Anak's giant-race.
 Goliath is his name. His fearful stature,
 Unparallel'd in Israel, measures more
 Than twice three cubits. On his tow'ring head
 A helm of burnish'd brafs the giant wears,
 So pond'rous, it would crush the stoutest man
 In all our hosts. A coat of mailed armour
 Guards his capacious trunk; compar'd with which
 The amplest oak, that spreads his rugged arms
 In Bashan's groves, were small. About his neck
 A shining corflet hangs. On his vast thigh
 The plaited cuirass firmly jointed stands.
 But who shall tell the wonders of his spear,

And

And hope to gain belief? of massive iron
 Its temper'd frame; not less than the broad beam
 To which the busy weaver hangs his loom;
 Not to be wielded by a mortal hand,
 Save by his own. An armour-bearer walks
 Before this mighty champion, in his hand
 Bearing the giant's shield. Thrice, every morn,
 His herald sounds the trumpet of defiance;
 Off'ring at once to end the long-drawn war,
 In single combat, 'gainst that hardy foe
 Who dares encounter him.

DAVID.

Say, mighty Abner!

What are the haughty terms of his defiance?

ABNER.

Proudly he stalks around th' extremest bounds
 Of Elah's valley. His herald sounds the note
 Of offer'd battle. Then the furious giant,
 With such a voice as from the troubled sky,
 In vollied thunder, breaks, thus sends his challenge:
 "Why do you set your battle in array,
 Ye men of Israel? Wherefore waste the lives
 Of needless thousands? Why protract a war,
 Which may at once be ended? Are not you
 Servants to Saul your king? and am not I,
 With triumph let me speak it, a Philistine?
 Choose out a man from all your armed hosts,
 Of courage most approv'd; and I will meet him,
 His single arm to mine. Th' event of this Shall fix the fate of Israel and Philistia.

If victory favour him, then will we live
 Your tributary slaves; but if my arm
 Be crown'd with conquest, you shall then live ours.
 Give me a man, if your effeminate bands
 A man can boast. Your armies I defy."

DAVID.

What shall be done to him, who shall subdue
 This vile idolater?

ABNER.

He shall receive
 Such ample bounties, such profuse rewards,
 As might inflame chill age, or cowardice,
 Were not the odds so desperate.

DAVID.

Say, what are they?

ABNER.

The royal Saul has promis'd that bold hero,
 Who shall encounter and subdue Goliath,
 All dignity and favour; that his house
 Shall be set free from tribute, and ennobled
 With the first honours Israel has to give.
 And for the gallant conqueror himself,
 No less a recompence than the fair Princefs,
 Our monarch's peerles daughter.

DAVID.

Beauteous Michal

It is indeed a boon which kings might strive for.
 And has none answ'red yet this bold defiance?

What

What, all this goodly host of Israelites,
 God's own peculiar people! all afraid
 To assert God's injur'd honour, and their own?
 The king himself, who in his early youth
 Wrought deeds of fame! the princely Jonathan!
 Not so the gallant youth Philistia fear'd
 At Bozez and at Seneh *; when the earth
 Shook from her deep foundations, to behold
 The wond'rous carnage of his single hand
 On the uncircumcis'd. When he exclaim'd,
 With glorious confidence—" Shall numbers awe me?
 " God will protect his own: with him to fave,
 " It boots not, friends, by many or by few."
 This was an hero! Why does he delay
 To meet this boaster? For thy courtesy,
 Thrice noble Abner; I am bound to thank thee!
 Wou'dst thou complete thy gen'rous offices?
 I dare not ask it.

A B N E R .

Speak thy wishes freely:
 My soul inclines to serve thee.

D A V I D .

Then, O Abner,
 Conduct me to the king! There is a cause
 Will justify this boldness.

E L I A B .

Braggard, hold!

H 2

A B N E R .

* I Samuel xiv.

ABNER.

I take thee at thy word; and will, with speed,
 Conduct thee to my royal master's presence.
 In yonder tent, the anxious monarch waits
 Th' event of this day's challenge.

DAVID.

Noble Abner!

Accept my thanks. Now to thy private ear,
 If so thy grace permit, I will unfold
 My secret soul; and ease my lab'ring breast,
 Which pants with high designs, and beats for glory.

DAVID AND GOLIATH.

PART III.

SCENE, SAUL's Tent.

SAUL.

WHY was I made a king? what I have gain'd:
 In envy'd greatness and uneasy pow'r,
 I've lost in peace of mind, in virtue lost!
 Why did deceitful transports fire my soul,
 When Samuel plac'd upon my youthful brow
 The crown of Israel? I had known a content,
 Nay happiness, if happiness unmix'd

To,

To mortal man were known ; had I still liv'd
 Among the humble tents of Benjamin.
 A shepherd's occupation was my joy,
 And ev'ry guiltless day was crown'd with peace.
 But now, a fallen cloud for ever hangs
 O'er the faint sunshine of my brightest hours,
 Dark'ning the golden promise of the morn.
 I ne'er shall taste the dear domestic joys
 My meanest subjects know. True, I have sons,
 Whose virtues would have charm'd a private man,
 And drawn down blessings on their humble sire.
 I love their virtues too ; but 'tis a love,
 Which jealousy has poison'd. Jonathan
 Is all a father's fondness cou'd conceive
 Of amiable and good — Of that no more !
 He is too popular ; the people doat
 Upon th' ingenuous graces of his youth.
 Curs'd popularity ! which makes a father
 Detest the merit of a son he loves.
 How did their fond idolatry perforce,
 Rescue his sentenc'd life, when doom'd by lot
 To perish at Beth-aven*, for the breach
 Of strict injunction, that of all my bands,
 Not one that day shou'd taste of food, and live.
 My subjects clamour at this tedious war,
 Yet of my num'rous armed chiefs, not one
 Has courage to engage this man of Gath.
 O for a champion bold enough to face
 This giant-boaster, whose repeated threats
 Strike thro' my inmost soul ! There was a time —

Of

Of that no more!—I am not what I was.
 Shou'd valiant Jonathan accept the challenge,
 'Twould but increase his favour with the people,
 And make the crown fit loofely on my brow.
 Ill cou'd my wounded spirit brook the voice
 Of harsh comparis'on 'twixt fire and son.

SAUL, ABNER.

ABNER.

What meditation holds thee thus engag'd,
 O king! and keeps thine active spirit bound;
 When busy war far other cares demands
 'Than ruminating thought, and pale despair?

SAUL.

Abner, draw near. My weary soul sinks down,
 Beneath the heavy pressure of misfortune.
 O for that spirit, which inflam'd my breast
 With sudden fervor; when among the seers,
 And holy fages, my prophetic voice
 Was heard attentive, and th' astonish'd throng,
 Wond'ring, exclaim'd, "Is Saul among the prophets?"
 Where's that bold arm which quell'd th' Amalekite,
 And nobly spar'd fierce Agag and his flocks?
 'Tis past; the light of Israel now is quench'd:
 Shorn of his beams, my sun of glory sets!
 Rile Mcab, Edom, angry Ammon, rise!
 Come Gaza, Ashdod come! let Ekron boast,
 And Askelon rejoice, for Saul—is nothing,

ABNER.

I bring thee news, O king!

My valiant uncle !

What can avail thy news ? A soul oppres'd,
 Refuses still to hear the charmer's voice,
 Howe'er enticingly he charm. What news
 Can sooth my sickly soul, while Gath's fell giant
 Repeats each morning to my frighten'd hosts
 His daring challenge—none accepting it ?

A B N E R .

It is accepted.

Ha ! by whom ? how ? when ?

What prince, what gen'ral, what illustrious hero,
 What vet'ran chief, what warrior of renown,
 Will dare to meet the haughty foe's defiance ?
 Speak, my brave gen'ral ! noble Abner, speak !

A B N E R .

No prince, no warrior, no illustrious chief,
 No vet'ran hero dares accept the challenge ;
 But what will move thy wonder, mighty king !
 One train'd to peaceful deeds, and new to arms,
 A simple shepherd swain.

O mockery !

No more of this light tale, it suits but ill
 Thy bearded gravity : or rather tell it
 To credulous age, or weak believing women ;
 They love whate'er is marvellous, and doat

On deeds prodigious, and incredible,
 Which sober sense rejects. I laugh to think
 Of thy extravagance. A shepherd's boy
 Encounter him, whom nations dread to meet!

A B N E R.

Is valour, then, peculiar to high birth ?
 If Heav'n had so decreed, know, scornful king,
 That Saul the Benjaminite had never reign'd.
 No :—Glory darts her soul-pervading ray,
 On thrones and cottages, regardless still
 Of all the false, chimerical distinctions
 Vain human customs make.

S A U L.

Where is this youth ?

A B N E R.

Without thy tent he waits. Such humble sweetnes,
 Fir'd with the secret conscience of desert ;
 Such manly bearing, tempered with such softness,
 And so adorn'd with every outward charm
 Of graceful forma and feature, saw I never.

S A U L.

Bring me the youth.

A B N E R.

He waits thy royal pleasure.

[Exit ABNER.]

S A U L.

What must I think ? Abner himself is brave,
 And skill'd in human kind : nor does he judge

So lightly, to be caught by specious words,
 And fraud's smooth artifice, without the mark
 Of worth intrinsic. But behold he comes !
 The youth too with him ! Justly did he praise
 The candor, which adorns his open brow.

Re-enter A B N E R and D A V I D.

D A V I D.

Hail, mighty king !

A B N E R.

Behold thy proffer'd champion.

S A U L.

Art thou the youth, whose high heroic zeal
 Aspires to meet the giant son of Anak ?

D A V I D.

If so the king permit.

S A U L.

Impossible !

Why, what experience has thy youth of arms ?
 Where didst thou learn the dreadful trade of war ?
 Beneath what hoary vet'ran hast thou serv'd ?
 What feats atchiev'd, what deeds of bold emprise ?
 What well-rang'd phalanx, and what charging hosts,
 What hard campaigns, what sieges hast thou seen ?
 Hast thou e'er scal'd the city's rampir'd wall,
 Or hurl'd the missile dart, or learn'd to poise
 The warrior's deathful spear ? The use of targe,
 Of helm, and buckler, is to thee unknown.

I

D A V I D.

DAVID.

Arms I have seldom seen. I little know
 Of war's proud discipline. The trumpet's clang,
 The shock of charging hosts, the rampir'd wall,
 Th' embattled phalanx, and the warrior spear,
 The use of targe and helm to me is new.
 My zeal for GOD, my patriot love of Israel,
 And reverence for my king, these are my claims.

SAUL.

But, gentle youth, thou hast no fame in arms,
 Renown, with her shrill clarion, never bore
 Thy honour'd name to many a land remote.
 From the fair regions, where Euphrates laves
 Assyria's borders, to the distant Nile.

DAVID.

True, mighty king! I am indeed alike
 Unbless'd by Fortune, and to Fame unknown;
 A lowly shepherd-swain of Judah's tribe.
 But greatness ever springs from low beginnings.
 That very Nile thou mention'st, whose broad stream
 Bears fruitfulness and health thro' many a clime,
 From an unknown, penurious, scanty source,
 Took its first rise. The forest oak, which shades
 Thy sultry troops in many a toilsome march,
 Once an unheeded acorn lay. O king!
 Who ne'er begins, can never ought atchieve
 Of glorious. Thou thyself wast once unknown,
 'Till fair occasion brought thy worth to light.
 Sublimer views inspire my youthful heart,
 Than human praise: I seek to vindicate
 Th' insulted honour of the GOD thou serv'st.

A B N E R.

"Tis nobly said.

S A U L.

I love thy spirit, youth !

But dare not trust thy inexperienc'd arm
 Against a giant's might. The sight of blood,
 Tho' brave thou feel'st when peril is not nigh,
 Will pale thy ardent cheek.

D A V I D.

Not so, O king !

This youthful arm has been imbru'd in blood,
 Tho' yet no blood of man has ever stain'd it.
 Thy servant's occupation is a shepherd :
 With jealous care I watch'd my father's flock :
 A brindled lion, and a furious bear,
 Forth from the thicket rush'd upon the fold,
 Seiz'd a young lamb, and tore their bleating spoil ;
 Urg'd by compassion for my helpless charge,
 I felt a new-born vigour nerve my arm,
 And, eager, on the foaming monsters rush'd.
 The famish'd lion by his grilfy beard,
 Enrag'd, I caught, and smote him to the ground ;
 The panting monster struggling in my gripe,
 Shook terribly his bristling mane, and lash'd
 His own gaunt, goary sides ; fiercely he ground
 His gnash'ing teeth, and roll'd his starting eyes,
 Bloodshot with agony : then with a groan,
 That wak'd the echoes of the mountain, dy'd.
 Nor did his grim associate 'scape my arm ;
 Thy servant slew the lion and the bear,
 I kill'd them both, and bore their shaggy spoils

In triumph home. And shall I fear to meet
 Th' uncircumcis'd Philistine? No: that GOD,
 Who sav'd me from the bear's destructive fang,
 And hungry lion's jaw, will not he save me
 From this Idolater?

SAUL.

He will, he will!

Go, noble youth! be valiant, and be bleſſ'd!
 The GOD thou serv'st will shield thee in the fight,
 And nerve thy arm with more than mortal strength.

ABNER.

So the bold Nazarite * a lion flew,
 An earnest of his victories o'er Philistia.

SAUL.

Go, Abner! see the youth be well equipp'd
 With shield and spear. Be it thy care to grace him
 With all the fit accoutrements of war.
 The choicest mail from my rich armoury take,
 And gird upon his thigh my own try'd sword,
 Of nobleſt temper'd steel.

ABNER.

I shall obey.

DAVID.

Pardon, O king! the coat of plaited mail,
 These limbs have never known; it wou'd not shield,
 'Twou'd

* Samson. See Judges, chap. xiv.

"Twou'd but encumber one, who never felt
The weight of armour.

S A U L.

Take thy wish, my son.
Thy sword then, and the GOD of Jacob Guard thee!

DAVID AND GOLIATH.

P A R T IV.

S C E N E, another Part of the Camp,

D A V I D.

ETERNAL Justice! in whose awful scale
Th' event of battle hangs! Eternal Mercy,
Whose universal beam illumines all!
If, by thy attributes I may, unblam'd,
Address thee; Lord of glory, hear me now!
O teach these hands to war, these arms to fight!
Thou ever present help in time of need!
Let thy broad mercy, as a shield, defend;

And

And let thine everlasting arms support me !
 Then, tho' the heathen rage, I shall not fear.
 JEHOVAH ! be my buckler. Mighty LORD !
 Thou, who hast deign'd by humble instruments,
 To manifest the marvels of thy might,
 Be present with me now ! 'tis thy own cause !
 Thy wisdom will foresee, thy goodness chuse,
 And thy omnipotence will execute
 Thy high designs, tho' by a feeble arm !
 I feel a secret impulse drive me on,
 And my soul springs impatient for the fight.
 'Tis not the heated spirits, or warm blood
 Of sanguine youth ; and yet I pant, I burn
 To meet th' insulting foe. I thirst for glory ;
 Yet not the fading glory of renown,
 The perishable praise of mortal man.

DAVID, ELIAB, ISRAELITES.

ELIAB.

What do I hear, thou truant ? thou hast dar'd,
 Ev'n to the awful presence of the king,
 Bear thy presumption !

DAVID.

He, who fears the LORD,
 Shall boldly stand before the face of kings,
 And shall not be ashamed.

ELIAB.

But what wild dream
 Has urg'd thee to this deed of desp'rate rashness ?

Their

'Thou mean'st, so have I learn'd, to meet Goliath,
 His single arm to thine.

D A V I D.

'Tis what I mean,
 Ev'n on this spot; each moment I expect
 His wish'd approach.

E L I A B.

Go home; return, for shame?
 Nor madly pull destruction on thy head.
 Thy doating father, when thy shepherd's coat,
 Drench'd in thy blood is brought him, will lament,
 And rend his furrow'd cheek, and silver hair,
 As if some mighty loss had touch'd his age;
 And mourn, even as the partial patriarch mourn'd,
 When Joseph's bloody garment he receiv'd,
 From his less dear, not less deserving, sons.
 But whence that glitt'ring ornament, which hangs
 Useless upon thy thigh?

D A I V D.

'Tis the king's gift.
 But thou art right; it suits not me, my brother.
 Nor sword I mean to wear, nor spear to poize,
 Lest men shou'd say I put my trust in ought,
 Save an eternal shield.

E L I A B.

Then thou indeed
 Art bent to seek thy death.

D A V I D.

And what is death?
 Is it so terrible to die, my brother?

Or

Or grant it terrible, say is it not
 Inevitable too? If, by eluding death,
 When some high duty calls us forth to die,
 We cou'd for ever shun it, and escape
 The universal lot; then fond self-love,
 Then human prudence, boldly might produce
 Their fine-spun arguments, their learn'd harangues,
 Their cobweb arts, their phrase sophistical,
 Their subtle doubts, and all the specious trick,
 Of eloquent cunning lab'ring for its end.
 But since, howe'er protracted, death will come,
 Why fondly study, with ingenious pains,
 To put it off?—To breathe a little longer,
 Is to defer our fate, but not to shun it:
 Small gain! which Wisdom with indiff'rent eye
 Beholds. Why wish to drink the bitter dregs
 Of life's exhausted chalice, whose last runnings,
 Ev'n at the best, are vapid? Why not die,
 (If Heav'n so will) in manhood's op'ning bloom,
 When all the flush of life is gay about us,
 When sprightly youth, with many a new-born joy,
 Solicits every sense? So may we then
 Present a sacrifice, unmeet, indeed,
 (Ah, how unmeet!) but more acceptable
 Than the world's leavings; than a worn-out heart,
 By vice enfeebled, and by vain desires
 Sunk and exhausted!

ELIA B.

Hark! I hear a sound
 Of multitudes approaching!

DAVID.

DAVID.

'Tis the giant !

I see him not, but hear his measur'd pace.

ELIA B.

Look, where his pond'rous shield is borne before him !

DAVID.

Like a broad moon its ample disk protends.
 But soft, what unknown prodigy appears ?
 A moving mountain cas'd in polish'd brafs !

ELIA B. [Getting behind DAVID.]

How's this ? thou dost not tremble. Thy firm joints
 Betray no fear : Thy accents are not broken :
 Thy cheek retains its red, thine eye its lustre.
 He coines more near. Dost thou not fear him now ?

DAVID.

No.

The vast collofhal statue nor inspries
 Respect nor fear. Mere magnitude of form,
 Without proportion'd intellect and valour,
 Strikes not my soul with rev'rence nor with awe.

ELIA B.

Near, and more near, he comes. I hold it rash
 To stay so near him, and expose a life,
 Which may hereafter serve the state. Farewell !

[Exit.]

[GOLIATH advances, clad in complete armour. One bearing his shield precedes him. The opposing armies are seen at a distance, drawn up on each side of the valley. GOLIATH begins to speak, before he comes on. DAVID stands in the same place, with an air of indifference.]

K

GOLI-

GOLIATH.

Where is the mighty man of war, who dares
 Accept the challenge of Philistia's chief?
 What victor-king, what gen'ral drench'd in blood,
 Claims this high privilege? What are his rights?
 What proud credentials does the boaster bring,
 To prove his claim! What cities laid in ashes?
 What ruin'd provinces? What slaughter'd realms?
 What heads of heroes, and what hearts of kings,
 In battle kill'd, or at his altars slain,
 Has he to boast? Is his bright armoury
 Thick set with spears, and fwords, and coats of mail,
 Of vanquish'd nations, by his single arm
 Subdued? Where is the mortal man so bold,
 So much a wretch, so out of love with life,
 To dare the weight of this uplifted spear,
 Which never fell innoxious? Yet I swear,
 I grudge the glory to his parting soul
 To fall by this right-hand. 'Twill sweeten death,
 To know he had the honour to contend
 With the dread son of Anak. Latest time
 From blank oblivion shall retrieve his name,
 Who dar'd to perish in unequal fight
 With Gath's triumphant champion. Come, advance!
 Philistia's Gods to Israel's. Sound, my herald—
 Sound for the battle strait!

[Herald sounds the trumpet.

DAVID.

Behold thy foe!

GOLIATH.

I see him not.

DAVID.

DAVID.

Behold him here !

GOLIATH.

Say, where ?

Direct my sight. I do not war with boys.

DAVID.

I stand prepar'd, thy single arm to mine.

GOLIATH.

Why, this is mockery, Minion ! it may chance
 To cost thee dear. Sport not with things above thee :
 But tell me who, of all this num'rous host,
 Expects his death from me ? Which is the man,
 Whom Israel sends to meet my bold defiance ?

DAVID.

Th' election of my sov'reign falls on me.

GOLIATH.

On thee ! on thee ! by Dagon 'tis too much !
 Thou curled Minion ! thou a nation's champion !
 'Twou'd move my mirth at any other time ;
 But trifling's out of tune. Begone, light boy !
 And tempt me not too far.

DAVID.

I do defy thee ;

Thou foul idolater ! hast thou not scorn'd
 The armies of the living GOD I serve ?
 By me he will avenge upon thy head
 Thy nation's sin's and thine. Arm'd with his name,

Unshrinking, I dare meet the stoutest foe
That ever bath'd his hostile spear in blood.

GOLIATH, ironically.

Indeed ! 'tis wond'rous well ! Now, by my Gods,
The stripling plays the orator ! Vain boy !
Keep close to that same bloodless war of words,
And thou shalt still be safe. Tongue-valiant warrior !
Where is thy sylvan crook, with garlands hung,
Of idle field-flowers ? Where thy wanton harp,
Thou dainty-finger'd hero ? better strike
Its note lascivious, or the lulling lute
Touch softly, than provoke the trumpet's rage.
I will not stain the honour of my spear
With thy inglorious blood. Shall that fair cheek
Be scarr'd with wounds unseemly ? Rather go,
And hold fond dalliance with the Syrian maids ;
To wanton measures dance, and let them braid
The bright luxuriance of thy golden hair ;
They, for their lost Adonis, may mistake
Thy dainty form.

DAVID.

Peace, thou unhallow'd railer !
O tell it not in Gath, nor let the sound
Reach Askelon, how once your slaughter'd Lords,
By mighty * Samson found one common grave :
When his broad shoulder the firm pillars heav'd,
And to its base the tott'ring fabric shook.

GOLIATH.

GOLIATH.

Insulting boy! perhaps thou hast not hear'd
 The infamy of that inglorious day,
 When your weak hosts at * Eben-ezer pitch'd
 Their quick-abandon'd tents? Then, when your ark,
 Your talisman, your charm, your boasted pledge
 Of safety and success, was tamely lost!
 And yet not tamely, since by me 'twas won.
 When with this good right-arm I thinn'd your ranks,
 And bravely crush'd, beneath a single blow,
 The chosen guardians of this vaunted shrine,
 Hophni † and Phineas. The fam'd ark it self,
 I bore to Ashdod.

DAVID.

I remember too,

Since thou provok'st th' unwelcome truth, how all
 Your blushing priests beheld their idols shame;
 When prostrate Dagon fell before the ark,
 And your frail God was shiver'd. Then Philistia,
 Idolatrous Philistia, flew for succour
 To Israel's help, and all her smitten nobles
 Confess'd the Lord was God, and the blest'd ark,
 Gladly, with reverential awe restor'd!

GOLIATH.

By Ashdod's fane thou ly'st. Now will I meet thee,
 Thou insect warrior! since thou dar'st me thus!

Already

* 1 Samuel, chap. v.

† Commentators say, that the Chaldee Paraphrase makes Goliath boast, that he had killed Hophni, and Phineas, and taken the ark prisoner.

Already I behold thy mangled limbs,
 Dissever'd each from each, ere long to feed
 The fierce, blood-stuffing vulture. Mark me well!
 Around my spear I'll twif thy shining locks,
 And toss in air thy head all gash'd with wounds ;
 Thy lips, yet quiv'ring with the dire convulsion
 Of recent death! Art thou not terrified ?

DAVID.

No.

True courage is not mov'd by breath of words.
 But the rash bravery of boiling blood,
 Impetuous, knows no settled principle.
 A fev'rish tide, it has its ebbs and flows,
 As spirits rise or fall, as wine inflames,
 Or circumstances change. But inborn courage,
 The gen'rous child of Fortitude and Faith,
 Holds its firm empire in the constant soul ;
 And, like the stedfast pele-star, never once
 From the same fix'd and faithful point declines.

GOLIATH.

The curses of Philistia's gods be on thee !
 This fine-drawn speech is meant to lengthen out
 That little life thy words pretend to scorn.

DAVID.

Ha ! say'ft thou so ? come on then ! Mark us well.
 Thou com'ft to me with sword, and spear, and shield !
 In the dread name of Israel's God, I come ;
 The living L O R D of HOSTS, whom thou defy'ft !
 Yet tho' no shield I bring, no arms, except
 These five smooth stones I gather'd from the brook,

With

With such a simple sling as shepherds use ;
 Yet all expos'd, defenceless as I am,
 The GOD I serve shall give thee up a prey
 To my victorious arm. This day, I mean
 To make th' uncircumcised tribes confess
 There is a GOD in Israel. I will give thee,
 Spite of thy vaunted strength, and giant bulk,
 To glut the carrion kites. Nor thee alone ;
 The mangled carcases of your thick hosts,
 Shall spread the plains of Elah : till Philistia,
 Thro' all her trembling tents and flying bands,
 Shall own that Judah's GOD is GOD indeed !
I dare thee to the trial !

G O L I A T H .

Follow me.

In this good spear I trust.

D A V I D .

I trust in Heaven !

The GOD of battles stimulates my arm,
 And fires my soul with ardor, not its own.

DAVID.

DAVID AND GOLIATH.

P A R T V.

SCENE, The Tent of SAUL.

SAUL, rising from his Couch.

OH! that I knew the black and midnight arts
 Of wizard sorcery! that I cou'd call
 The slumb'ring spirit from the shades of hell!
 Or, like Chaldean sages, cou'd foreknow
 Th' event of things unacted! I might then
 Anticipate my fortune. How I'm fall'n!
 The sport of vain chimeras, the weak slave
 Of Fear, and sickly Fancy; coveting
 To know the arts, which foul diviners use.
 Thick blood, and moping melancholy, lead
 To baleful Superstition; that fell fiend,
 Whose with'ring charms blast the fair bloom of virtue.
 Why did my wounded pride with scorn reject
 The wholesome truths, which holy Samuel told me?
 Why drive him from my presence? he might now
 Raise my funk soul, and my benighted mind

Enlighten

Enlighten with religion's cheering ray.
 He dar'd to menace me with loss of empire;
 And I, for that bold honesty, dismiss'd him.
 "Another shall possess thy throne, he cry'd,
 "A stranger!" This unwelcome prophecy
 Has lin'd my crown, and strew'd my couch, with thorns!
 Each ray of op'ning merit I discern
 In friend or foe, distracts my troubled soul,
 Lest he shou'd prove my rival. But this morn,
 Ev'n my young champion, lovely as he look'd
 In blooming valour, struck me to the soul,
 With jealousy's barb'd dart. O Jealousy!
 Thou ugliest fiend of hell!, thy deadly venom
 Preys on my vitals, turns the healthful hue
 Of my fresh cheek to haggard fallowness,
 And drinks my spirit up!

[A flourish of trumpets, shouting, &c. &c.

What sounds are those?

The combat is decided. Hark! again,
 Those shouts proclaim it! Now, O GOD of JACOB,
 If yet thou hast not quite withdrawn from Saul
 Thy light and favour, prosper me this once!
 But Abner comes! I dread to hear his tale.
 Fair Hope, with smiling face, but ling'ring foot,
 Has long deceiv'd me.

A B N E R.

King of Israel, hail!

Now thou art king indeed. The youth has conquer'd,
 Goliath's dead.

S A U L.

Oh, speak thy tale again,
 Lest my fond ears deceive me!

L

A B N E R.

ABNER.

Thy young champion

Has slain the giant.

SAUL.

Then GOD is gracious still,
 In spite of my offences! But, good Abner,
 How was it? tell me all! Where is my champion?
 Quick let me press him to my grateful heart,
 And pay him a king's thanks. And yet, who knows?
 This forward friend may prove an active foe.
 No more of that.—Tell me the whole, brave Abner!
 And paint the glorious acts of my young hero!

ABNER.

Full in the centre of the camp they stood;
 Th' opposing armies rang'd on either side,
 In proud array. The haughty giant stalk'd,
 Stately, across the valley. Next the youth,
 With modest confidence advanc'd. Nor pomp,
 Nor gay parade, nor martial ornament,
 His graceful form adorn'd. Goliath strait,
 With solemn state, began the busy work
 Of dreadful preparation. In one place,
 His closely jointed mail an op'ning left,
 For air, and only one: the watchful youth
 Mark'd that the beaver of his helm was up.
 Meanwhile the Giant such a blow devis'd,
 As wou'd have crush'd him; this the youth perceiv'd,
 And from his well directed sling, he hurl'd,
 With dextrous aim, a stone, which sunk, deep lodg'd,
 In the capacious forehead of the foe.
 Then with a cry, as loud and terrible,
 As Lybian lions roaring for their young,

Quite

Quite stunn'd, the furious Giant stagger'd, reel'd,
 And fell: the mighty mass of man fell prone.
 With its own weight his shatter'd bulk was bruis'd.
 His clattering arms rung dreadful thro' the field,
 And the firm basis of the solid earth
 Shook. Chok'd with blood and dust, he curs'd his gods,
 And dy'd blaspheming! Strait the victor youth
 Drew from its sheath the Giant's pond'rous fword,
 And from th' enormous trunk, the goary head,
 Furious in death, he sever'd. The grim visage
 Look'd threat'ning still, and still frown'd horribly.

S A U L.

O glorious deed! O valiant conqueror!

A B N E R.

The youth so calm appear'd, so nobly firm;
 So cool, yet so intrepid; that these eyes
 Ne'er saw such temperate valour, so chaslis'd
 By modesty.

S A U L.

Thou dwell'st upon his praise
 With needless circumstance. 'Twas nobly done,
 But others too have fought!

A B N E R.

None, none so bravely

S A U L.

What fellow'd next?

ABNER.

The shouting Israelites
 On the Philistines rush'd, and still pursue
 Their routed remnant's. In dismay, their bands,
 Disorder'd fly. While shouts of loud acclaim
 Pursue their brave deliverer. Lo, he comes!
 Bearing the Giant's head, and shining sword,
 His well-earn'd trophies.

SAUL, ABNER, DAVID.

[DAVID, bearing GOLIATH's head and sword. He kneels, and lays both at SAUL's feet.]

SAUL.

Welcome to my heart,
 My glorious champion! my deliverer, welcome!
 How shall I speak the swelling gratitude
 Of my full heart? or give thee the high praise
 Thy gallant deeds deserve?

DAVID.

O mighty king!
 Sweet is the breath of praise, when giv'n by those Whose own high merit claims the praise they give.
 But let not this one fortunate event,
 By Heav'n directed, be ascrib'd to me.
 I might have fought with equal skill and courage,
 And not have gain'd this conquest; then had shame,
 Harsh obloquy, and foul disgrace befal'n me.
 But prosp'rous fortune gains the praise of valour.

SAUL.

I like not this. In every thing superior!
 He soars above me (Aside.) Modest youth, thou'rt right.
 And

And fortune, as thou say'st, deserves the praise
We give to human valour.

DAVID.

Rather say,

The GOD OF HOSTS deserves it.

SAUL.

Tell me, youth !

What is thy name, and what thy father's house ?

DAVID.

My name is David, Jesse is my sire,
An humble Bethlemite of Judah's tribe.

SAUL.

David, the son of Jesse ! Sure that name
Has been familiar to me ! Nay, thy voice,
Thy form and features, I remember too,
Tho, faint, and indistinctly.

ABNER.

In this Hero

Behold thy sweet musician ; he, whose harp
Expell'd the melancholy fiend, whose pow'r
Enslav'd thy spirit.

SAUL.

This the modest youth,
Whom, for his skill and virtues, I preferr'd
To bear my armour ?

DAVID.

I am he, O king !

SAUL.

SAUL.

Why this concealment? tell me, valiant David!
Why didst thou hide thy birth and name till now?

DAVID.

O king! I wou'd not ought from favour claim,
Or on remember'd services presume:
But on the strength of my own actions stand,
Ungrac'd and unsupported.

ABNER.

Well he merits
The honours, which await him. Why, O king!
Dost thou delay to bless his doubting heart
With his well earn'd rewards? Thy lovely daughter,
By right of conquest his!

SAUL, to DAVID.

True—thou hast won her.
She shall be thine—Yes, a king's word is past.

DAVID.

O boundless blessing! What, shall she be mine,
For whom contending monarchs might renounce
Their slighted crowns?

[Sounds of musical instruments heard at a distance.
Shouting and singing. A grand procession. CHO-RUS of HEBREW WOMEN.]

SAUL.

How's this? what sounds of joy
Salute my ears? what means this pageantry?

This.

This merry sound of tabret and of harp?
 What mean these idle instruments of triumph?
 These women, who in fair procession move,
 Making sweet melody?

A B N E R.

To pay due honour

To David, are they come.

[Aside.]

A rival's praise

Is discord to the ear of jealousy!

P R E P A R E ! your festal rites prepare !
 Let your triumphs rend the air !
 Idol gods shall reign no more,
 We the living L O R D adore !

Let heathen hosts on human helps repose,
 Since Israel's G O D has routed Israel's foes.

II.

Let remotest nations know,
 Proud Goliath's overthrow : -
 Fall'n, Philistia ! is thy trust,
 Dagon's honour laid in dust !

Who fears the L O R D of Glory, need not fear
 The brazen armour, or the lifted spear.

III.

See the routed squadrons fly !
 Hark ! their clamours rend the sky !

Blood

Blood and carnage stain the field!
See, the vanquish'd nations yield!
Despair and terror fill the frighten'd land;
While conq'ring David routs the trembling band.

IV.

Lo! upon the tented field,
Royal Saul has thousands kill'd!
Lo! upon th' ensanguin'd plain,
David has ten thousands slain!
Let mighty Saul his vanquish'd thousands tell,
While tenfold triumphs David's victories swell.

SCENE, near the Palace of BABYLON.

DANIEL, and captive Jews.

DANIEL.

PARENT of life and light! sole source of good!
 Whose tender mercies thro' the tide of time,
 In long successive order, have sustain'd,
 And fav'd the sons of Israel! Thou, whose pow'r
 Deliver'd righteous Noah from the flood,
 'The whelming flood, the grave of human kind!

Oh

Oh Thou! whose guardian care, and out-stretch'd hand,
 Rescu'd young Isaac from the lifted arm,
 Rais'd, at thy bidding, to devote a son,
 An only son, doom'd by his fire to die.
 (Oh, saving Faith, by such obedience prov'd!
 Oh blest Obedience, hallow'd this by faith!)
 Thou, who in mercy fav'dst the chosen race,
 In the wild desert; and didst there sustain them,
 By wonder-working love, tho' they rebell'd,
 And murmur'd at the miracles that fav'd them!
 Oh, hear thy servant Daniel! hear, and help!
 Thou! whose almighty pow'r did after raise
 Successive leaders to defend our race:
 Who sentest valiant Joshua to the field,
 Thy people's champion, to the conq'ring field;
 Where the revolving planet of the night,
 Suspended in her radiant round, was stay'd;
 And the bright sun, arrested in his course,
 Stupenduously stood still!

CHORUS of J E W S.

I.

What aileth thee, that thou stood'st still,
 O sun! nor did thy flaming orb decline?
 And thou, O moon! in Ajalon's dark vale,
 Why did'st thou long beyond thy period shine?

II.

Was it at Joshua's dread command,
 The leader of the Israelitish band?
 Yes — at a mortal bidding both stood still;
 'Twas Joshua's word, but 'twas JEHOVAH's will.

III.

What all-controlling hand had force
 To stop eternal Nature's constant course ?
 The wand'ring moon to one fix'd spot confine,
 But He, whose fiat bade the planets shine ?

D A N I E L.

O Thou ! who, when thy discontented host,
 Tir'd of JEHOVAH's rule, desir'd a king,
 In anger gav'st them Saul ; and then again
 Didst wrest the regal sceptre from his hand,
 To give it David—David, best belov'd !
 Illustrious David ! Poet, prophet, king !
 Thou, who didst suffer Solomon his son,
 To build a glorious temple to thy name !
 Oh hear thy servants, and forgive them too,
 If, by severe necessity compell'd,
 We worship here—We have no temple now ;
 Altar or sanctuary, none is left.

CHORUS of J E W S.

O Judah ! let thy captive sons deplore,
 Thy far-fam'd temple's now no more !
 Fall'n is thy sacred fane, thy glory gone,
 Fall'n is thy temple, Solomon.

Ne'er did Barbaric kings behold,
 With all their shining gems, their burnish'd gold,
 A fane so perfect, bright and fair ;
 For GOD himself was wont t' inhabit there :
 Between the Cherubim his glory stood,
 While the high-priest alone the dazzling splendor view'd.

How

How fondly did the Tyrian artist strive,
 His name to latest time should live!
 Such wealth the stranger wonder'd to behold :
 Gold were the tablets, and the vases gold.

Of cedar such an ample store,
 Exhausted Lebanon could yield no more.
 Bending before the Ruler of the sky,

Well might the royal founder cry,
 Fill'd with an holy dread, a rev'rend fear,
 Will God in very deed inhabit here ?

The heav'n of heav'ns beneath his feet,
 Is for the bright inhabitant unmeet :
 Archangels prostrate wait his high commands,
 And will he deign to dwell in temples made with hands ?

D A N I E L.

Yes, thou art ever present, Pow'r supreme !
 Not circumscrib'd by time, nor fix'd to space,
 Confin'd to altars, nor to temples bound.
 In wealth, in want, in freedom, or in chains,
 In dungeons or on thrones, the faithful find thee !
 Ev'n in the burning cauldron thou wast near
 To Shadrach and the holy brotherhood ;
 The unhurt martyrs bless'd thee in the flames ;
 They fought, and found thee, call'd, and thou wast there.

First J E W.

How chang'd our state ! Judah ! thy glory's fall'n ;
 Thy joys for hard captivity exchang'd ;
 And thy sad sons breathe the polluted air
 Of Babylon, where deities obscene
 Insult the living God ; and to his servants,

The

The priests of wretched idols, made with hands,
Shew contumelious scorn.

D A N I E L.

'Tis Heav'n's high will.

Second J E W.

If I forget thee, O Jerusalem!
If I not fondly cherish thy lov'd image,
Ev'n in the giddy hour of thoughtless mirth;
If I not rather view thy prostrate walls
Than haughty Babylon's imperial tow'rs;
Then may my tongue refuse to frame the strains
Of sweetest harmony; my rude right hand
Forget, with sounds symphonious, to accord
The harp of Jesse's son, to Sion's songs.

First J E W.

Oft, on Euphrates' ever verdant banks,
Where drooping willows form a mournful shade;
With all the pride which prosp'rous fortunes give,
And all th' unfeeling mirth of happy men,
Th' insulting Babylonians ask a song;
Such songs as erst, in better days, were sung
By Korah's sons, or heav'n-taught Asaph set
To loftiest measures; then our bursting hearts
Feel all their woes afresh; the galling chain
Of bondage crushes then the free-born soul
With wringing anguish; from the trembling lip
Th' unfinish'd cadence falls, and the big tear,
While it relieves, betrays the woe-fraught soul.
For who can view Euphrates' pleasent stream,
Its drooping willows, and its verdant banks,

And not to wounded memory recal
 The piny groves of fertile Palæstine,
 The vales of Solyma, and Jordan's stream?

D A N I E L .

Firm faith, and deep submission to high Heav'n,
 Will teach us to endure, without a murmur,
 What seems so hard. Think what the holy host
 Of patriarchs, saints, and prophets, have sustain'd
 In the blest cause of Truth! And shall not we,
 O men of Judah! dare what these have dar'd,
 And boldly pass thro' the refining fire
 Of fierce affliction? Yes, be witness, Heav'n!
 Old as I am, I will not shrink at death,
 Come in what shape it may, if God so will,
 By peril to confirm and prove my faith.
 Oh! I wou'd dare yon' den of hungry lions,
 Rather than pause to fill the task assign'd,
 By wisdom infinite. Nor think I boast,
 Not in myself, but in thy strength I trust,
 Spirit of God!

First J E W.

Prophet! thy words support,
 And raise our sinking souls.

D A N I E L .

Behold yon' pâlace,
 Where proud Belshazzar keeps his wanton court!
 I knew it once beneath another lord,
 His grandfîre *, who subdued Jehoiachin,

And

* Nebuchadnezzar.

And hither brought sad Judah's captive tribes ;
 Together with the rich and sacred relics
 Of our fam'd temple ; all the holy treasure,
 The golden vases, and the sacred cups,
 Which grac'd, in happier times, the sanctuary.

Second J E W.

May HE, to whose blest use they were devoted,
 Preserve them from pollution ; and once more,
 In his own gracious time, restore the temple !

D A N I E L.

I, with some favour'd youths of Jewish race,
 Was lodg'd in his own palace, and instructed
 In all the various learning of the east :
 But HE, on whose great name our fathers call'd,
 Preserv'd us from the perils of a court ;
 And warn'd us to avoid the tempting cates
 Pernicious lux'ry offer'd to our taste.
 Fell luxury ! more perilous to youth
 Than storms or quicksands, poverty or chains.

Second J E W.

He, who can guard 'gainst the low baits of sense,
 Will find Temptation's arrows hurtless strike
 Against the brazen shield of Temperance.
 For 'tis th' inferior appetites enthral
 The man, and quench th' immortal light within him ;
 The fenses take the soul an easy prey,
 And sink th' imprison'd spirit into brute.

D A N I E L.

DANIEL.

Twice *, by the spirit of God, did I expound
 The visions of the king ; his soul was touch'd,
 And twice did he repent, and prostrate fall
 Before the God of Daniel : yet again,
 Pow'r, flatt'ry, and prosperity, undid him.
 When from the lofty ramparts of his palace,
 He view'd the splendors of the royal city,
 That magazine of wealth, which proud Euphrates
 Wafts from each distant corner of the earth ;
 When he beheld the adamantine towers,
 The brazen gates, the bulwarks of his strength,
 The pendent gardens, art's stupendous work,
 The wonder of the world !—The proud Chaldean,
 Mad with the insolence of boundless wealth,
 And pow'r supreme, conceiv'd himself a God.
 " This mighty Babylon is mine," he cried,
 " My wondrous pow'r, my godlike arm atchiev'd it.
 " I scorn submission, own no deity
 " Above my own."—While the blasphemer spoke,
 The wrath of Heav'n inflicted instant vengeance ;
 Stripp'd him of that bright reason he abus'd,
 And drove him from the cheerful haunts of men,
 A naked, wretched, helpless, senseless thing ;
 Companion of the brutes, his equals now.

First J E W.

Nor does his impious grandson, proud Belshazzar,
 Fall short of his offences ; nay, he wants
 The valiant spirit, and the active soul,

Of his progenitor: for Pleasure's slave,
 Though bound in flow'ry fetters, silky-soft,
 Is more subdued, than is the casual victim
 Of furious rage, and violent ambition.
 Ambition is a fierce, but short-liv'd fire;
 But Pleasure with a constant flame consumes.
 War slays her thousands; but destructive pleasure,
 More fell, more fatal, her ten thousands slays:
 The young, luxurious king she fondly woos
 In every shape of am'rous blandishment;
 With adulation smooth ensnares his soul,
 With love betrays him, and with wine inflames.
 She strews her magic poppies o'er his couch;
 And with delicious opiates charms him down,
 In fatal slumbers bound. Though Babylon
 Is now invested by the warlike troops
 Of the young Cyrus, Persia's valiant prince;
 Who, in conjunction with the Median king,
 Darius, fam'd for conquest, now prepares
 To storm the city: not th' impending horrors
 Which ever wait a siege, have power to wake
 To thought, or sense, th' intoxicated king.

D A N I E L.

Ev'n in this night of universal dread,
 A mighty army threat'ning at the gates;
 This very night, as if in scorn of danger,
 The dissolute Belshazzar holds a feast
 Magnificently impious, meant to honour
 Belus, the fav'rite Babylonish idol.
 Lewd parasites compose his wanton court,
 Whose impious flatt'ries sooth his monstrous crimes:
 They justify his vices, and extol

His boastful phrase, as if he were some god.
 Whate'er he says, they say ; what he commands,
 Implicitly they do ; they echo back
 His blasphemies, with shouts of loud acclaim ;
 And when he wounds the tortur'd ear of Virtue,
 They cry, All hail ! Belshazzar live for ever !
 To-night a thousand nobles fill his hall,
 Princes, and all the dames who grace the court ;
 All but the virtuous queen, sage Nitocris ;
 Ah ! how unlike the impious king her son !
 She never mingles in the midnight fray,
 Nor crowns the guilty banquet with her presence.
 The royal fair is rich in every virtue
 Which can adorn the queen, or grace the woman.
 But for the wisdom of her prudent counsels
 This wretched empire had been long undone.
 Not fam'd Semiramis, Assyria's pride,
 Cou'd boast a brighter mind, or firner soul ;
 Beneath the gentle reign of * Merodach,
 Her royal lord, our nation tasted peace.
 Our captive monarch, sad Jehoiachin,
 Grown grey in a close prison's horrid gloom,
 He freed from bondage ; brought the hoary king
 To taste once more the long-forgotten sweets
 Of precious liberty, and cheerful light ;
 Pour'd in his wounds the lenient balm of kindness,
 And bless'd his setting hour of life with peace.

[Sound of trumpets is heard at a distance.

First J E W.

That sound proclaims the banquet is begun.

Hark! the licentious uproar grows more loud.
 The vaulted roof resounds with shouts of mirth,
 And the firm palace shakes! Retire, my friends;
 This madness is not meet for sober ears.
 If any of our race were found so near,
 'Twou'd but expose us to the rude attack
 Of ribaldry obscene, and impious jests,
 From these mad sons of Belial, now inflam'd
 To deeds of riot from the wanton feast.

D A N I E L.

Here part we then! but when again to meet,
 Who knows fave Heav'n? Yet, O, my friends! I feel
 An impulse more than human stir my breast.
 Rapt in prophetic * vision I behold
 Things hid as yet from mortal sight. I see
 The dart of vengeance tremble in the air,
 Ere long to pierce the impious king. Ev'n now
 The fierce, destroying angel stalks abroad,
 And brandishes aleft the two-edg'd sword
 Of retribution keen; he soon will strike,
 And Babylon shall weep as Sion wept.
 Pass but a little while, and you shall see
 This queen of cities prostrate on the earth.
 This haughty mistress of the kneeling world,
 How shall she sit dishonour'd in the dust,
 In tarnish'd pom and solitary woe!
 How shall she shroud her glories in the dark,
 And in opprobrious silence hide her head!

Lament, O virgin daughter of Chaldea!
For thou shalt fall, imperial queen! shalt fall!
No more Sidonian robes shall grace thy limbs.
To purple garments, sackcloth shall succeed;
And fordid dust and ashes shall supply
The od'rous nard and cassia. Thou, who said'st,
I am, and there is none beside me: thou,
Ev'n thou, imperial Babylon! shalt fall:
Thy glory quite eclips'd! The pleasant sound
Of viol, and of harp, shall charm no more;
Nor song of Syrian damfels shall be heard,
Responsive to the lute's luxurious note.
But the loud bittern's cry, the raven's croak,
The bat's fell scream, the lonely owl's dull plaint,
And every hideous bird with ominous shriek,
Shall scare affrighted Silence from thy walls.
While DESOLATION, snatching from the hand
Of time the scythe of ruin, fits aloft,
In dreadful majesty and horrid pomp;
Glancing with sullen pride thy crumbling tow'rs,
Thy broken battlements, thy columns fall'n:
Then, pointing to the mischiefs she has made,
The fiend exclaims, This once was Babylon!

Princes far fam'd, and daines of high descent :
 Yet all this pride of wealth, this boast of beauty,
 Shrinks into nought before thine awful eye ;
 And lives, or dies, as the king frowns, or smiles !

Let dull philosophy preach self-denial ;
 Let envious poverty, and snarling age,
 Proudly declaim against the joys they know not.
 Let the deluded Jews, who fondly hope
 Some fancied heav'n hereafter, mortify ;
 And lose the actual blessings of this world,
 To purchase others which may never come.
 Our Gods may promise less, but give us more.
 Ill cou'd my ardent spirit be content
 With meagre abstinence, and hungry hope.
 Let those misjudging Israelites, who want
 The nimble spirits, and the active soul,
 Call their blunt feelings virtue : let them drudge,
 In regular yprogression, thro' the round
 Of formal duty, and of daily toil ;
 And, when they want the genius to be blest,
 Believe their harsh austerity is goodness.
 If there be Gods, they meant we shou'd be happy ;
 Why give us else these appetites to be for

And why, the means to crown them with indulgence?
 To burst the feeble bonds, which hold the vulgar,

 With ev'ry various joy; to night is ours;
 Nor shall the envious gods, who view our bliss,
 And sicken as they view, to-night disturb us.
 Bring all the richest spices of the East,
 The od'rous cassia, and the dropping myrrh;
 The liquid amber, and the fragrant gums;
 Rob Gilead of its balsms, Belshazzar bids,
 And leave the Arabian groves without an odour.
 Bring freshest flow'rs, exhaust the blooming spring,
 Twine the green myrtle with the short-liv'd rose;
 And ever, as the blushing garland fades,
 We'll learn to snatch the fugitive delight,
 And grasp the flying joy ere it escape us.
 Come—fill the smiling goblet for the king;
 Belshazzar will not let a moment pass,
 Unmark'd by some enjoyment! The full bowl
 Let every guest partake!

First COURTIER.

Here's to the king!

Light of the world, and glory of the earth,
Whose word is fate!

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Yes, we are likest gods,

When we have pow'r, and use it. What is wealth,
But the blest means to gratify desire?

I will not have a wish, a hope, a thought,
That shall not know fruition. What is empire?

The privilege to punish and enjoy;

To feel our pow'r in making others fear it;

To taste of pleasure's cup till we grow giddy,
And think ourselves immortal. This is empire!

My ancestors scarce tasted of its joys:

Shut from the sprightly world, and all its charms,

In cumbrous majesty, in fullen state,

And dull unsocial dignity they liv'd;

Far from the fight of an admiring world,

That world, whose gaze makes half the charms of greatness;

They nothing knew of empire but the name,

Or saw it in the looks of trembling slaves;

And all they felt of royalty was care.

But I will see, and know it of myself;

Youth, wealth, and greatness court me to be blest,

And Pow'r and Pleasure, draw with equal force

And sweet attraction: both I will embrace

With fond delight; but this is Pleasure's day;

Ambition will have time to reign hereafter;

It is the proper appetite of age.

The lust of pow'r shall lord it uncontrol'd,

When all the gen'rous feelings grow obtuse,

O

And

And stern dominion holds, with rigid hand,
His iron rein, and fits and sways alone.
But youth is Pleasure's hour !

The king's desire, whose slightest wish is law !

Now strike the loud-ton'd lyre, and softer lute ;
Let me have music, with the nobler aid
Of poesy ! Where are those cunning men,
Who boast, by chosen sounds, and measur'd sweetnes,
To set the busy spirits in a flame,
And cool them at their will ? who know the art
To call the hidden pow'rs of numbers forth,
And make that pliant instrument, the mind,
Yield to the pow'rful sympathy of sound,
Obedient to the master's artful hand ?
Such magic is in song ! Then give me song ;
Yet not at first such foul-dissolving strains,
As melt the soften'd sense ; but such bold measures,
As may inflame my spirit to despise
The ambitious Persian, that presumptuous boy,
Who rashly dares ev'n now invest our city,
And menaces th' invincible Belshazzar.

A grand CONCERT of MUSIC, after which an ODE.

In vain shall Persian Cyrus dare
With great Belshazzar wage unequal war :

In vain Darius shall combine,
Darius, leader of the Median line;

While fair Euphrates' stream our walls protects,
And great Belshazzar's self our fate directs.

War and famine threat in vain,

While this demi-god shall reign!

Let Persia's prostrate king confess his pow'r,
And Media's monarch dread his vengeful hour.

On Dura's * ample plain behold

Immortal Belus †, whom the nations own;

Sublime he stands in burnish'd gold,

And richest offerings his bright altars crown.

To-night his deity we here adore,

And due libations speak his mighty pow'r.

Yet Belus' self not more we own,

Than great Belshazzar on Chaldea's throne.

Great Belshazzar, like a god,

Rules the nations with a nod!

And my heart dances to the flatt'ring sounds.
I feel myself a god! Why not a god?
What were the deities our fathers worshipp'd?
What was great Nimrod, our imperial founder?
What, greater Belus, to whose pow'r divine,
We raise to-night the banquet and the song;
But youthful heroes, mortal, like myself,
Who by their daring earn'd divinity?
They were but men: nay, some were less than men,
Tho' now rever'd as Gods. What was Anubis,
Whom Egypt's sapient sons adore? A dog!
And shall not I, young, valiant, and a king,
Dare more? do more? be greater than the rest?
I will indulge the thought.—Fill me more wine,
To cherish and exalt the young idea! [He drinks.]

First COURTIER.

What means the king ?

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

The Jews ! saidst thou the Jews ?

First COURTIER.

I spoke of that undone, that outcast people,
 The tributary creatures of thy pow'r,
 The captives of thy will, whose very breath
 Hangs on the sov'reign pleasure of the king.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

When that abandon'd race was hither brought,
 Were not the choicest treasures of their temple,
 (Devoted to their God, and held most precious)
 Among the spoils which grac'd * Nebaflar's triumph,
 And lodg'd in Babylon ?

First COURTIER.

O king ! they were.

Second COURTIER.

The Jews, with superstitious awe, behold
 These sacred symbols of their ancient faith :

Now

* The name of Nebuchadnezzar not being reducible to verse, I have adopted that of Nebaflar, on the authority of the ingenious and learned Author of Judah Restored.

Nor has captivity abated ought
 'The rev'rend love they bear these holy reliques.
 'Tho' we deride their law, and scorn their persons,
 Yet never have we yet to human use
 Devoted these rich vessels, set apart
 To sacred purposes.

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

I joy to hear it!

Go—fetch them hither.. They shall grace our banquet.
 Does no one stir? Belshazzar disobey'd?
 And yet you live! Whence comes this strange reluctance?
 This new-born rev'rence for the helpless Jews?
 This fear to injure those, who can't revenge it?
 Send to the sacred treasury in haste,
 Let all be hither brought ;—who answers, dies.

[They go out.]

The mantling wine a higher joy will yield,
 Pour'd from the precious flaggons which adorn'd
 Their far-fam'd temple, now in ashes laid.
 Oh! 'twill exalt the pleasure in to transport,
 To gall those whining, praying Israelites!
 I laugh to think what wild dismay will seize them,
 When they shall learn the use that has been made
 Of all their holy trumpery!

[The vessels are brought in.]

Second C O U R T I E R .

It comes!

A goodly shew! how bright with gold and gems!
 Far fitter for a youthful monarch's board,
 Than the cold shrine of an unheeding God.

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Fill me that massy goblet to the brim.
 Now, Abraham ! let thy wretched race expect
 The fable of their faith to be fulfill'd ;
 Their second temple, and their promis'd king !
 Now will they see, he's impotent to save ;
 For had he pow'r to help, he would have hinder'd
 This profanation.

[As the king is going to drink, thunder is heard ; he starts from the throne, spies a hand, which writes on the wall these words ; MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN. He lets fall the goblet, and stands in an attitude of speechless horror. All start, and are terrified.]

First COURTIER, after a long pause.
 Oh, transcendent horror !

Second COURTIER.

What may this mean ! The king is greatly mov'd !

Third COURTIER.

Nor is it strange—who unappall'd can view it ?
 Those sacred cups ! I doubt we've gone too far.

First COURTIER.

Observe the fear-struck king ! his starting eyes
 Roll horribly. Thrice he essay'd to speak,
 And thrice his tongue refus'd.

B E L S H A Z Z A R , in a low trembling voice.
 Ye mystic words !

Thou semblance of an hand ! illusive forms !

Ye

Ye dire fantastic images, what are ye?
 Dread shadows, speak! Explain your horrible meaning!
 Ye will not answer me.—Yes, yes, I feel
 I am a mortal now—My failing limbs
 Refuse to bear me up. I am no god!
 Gods do not tremble thus.—Support me; hold me;
 These loosen'd joints, these knees which smite each other,
 Betray I'm but a man—a weak one too!

First COURIER.

In truth, 'tis passing strange, and full of horror!

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Send for the learn'd magicians, every sage
 Who deals in wizard spells and magic charms.

[Some go out.]

First COURIER.

How fares my lord the king?

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Am I a king?

What pow'r have I? Ye lying slaves, I am not.
 Oh, soul-distracting sight! but is it real?
 Perhaps 'tis fancy all, or the wild dream
 Of mad distemperature, the fumes of wine!
 I'll look upon't no more!—So—now I'm well!
 I am a king again, and know not fear.
 And yet my eyes will seek that fatal spot;
 And fondly dwell upon the sight, that blasts them!
 Again, 'tis there! it is not fancy's work.
 I see it still! 'tis written on the wall.
 I see the writing, but the viewless writer,
 Who, what is he? Oh, horror! horror! horror!

It cannot be the God of these poor Jews;
For what is He, that he can thus afflict?

Second COURTIER.

Let not my lord the king be thus dismay'd.

Third COURTIER.

Let not a phantom, an illusive shade,
Disturb the peace of him, who rules the world.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

No more, ye wretched sycophants ! no more !
The sweetest note which flatt'ry now can strike,
Harsh and discordant grates upon my soul.
Talk not of power to one so full of fear,
So weak, so impotent ? Look on that wall ;
If thou wou'dst sooth my soul, explain the writing ;
And thou shalt be my oracle, my God !
Tell me from whence it came, and what it means,
And I'll believe I am again a king !
Friends ! princes ! ease my troubled breast ; and say,
What do the mystic characters portend ?

First COURTIER.

'Tis not in us, O king ! to ease thy spirit ;
We are not skill'd in those mysterious arts,
Which wait the midnight studies of the sage :
But of the deep diviners thou shalt learn,
The wise astrologers, the sage magicians ;
Who, of events unborn, take secret note,
And hold deep commerce with the unseen world.

Enter ASTROLOGERS, MAGICIANS,
&c. &c.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Approach, ye fages, 'tis the king commands !

[They kneel.]

A S T R O L O G E R S.

Hail, mighty king of Babylon !

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Nay, rise :

I do not need your homage, but your help ;
 The world may worship, you must counsel me.
 He, who declares the secret of the king,
 No common honours shall await his skill ;
 Our empire shall be tax'd for his reward,
 And he himself shall name the gift he wishes.
 A splendid scarlet robe shall grace his limbs,
 His neck a princely chain of gold adorn,
 Meet honours for such wisdom ; He shall rule
 The third in rank throughout our Babylon.

[Second A S T R O L O G E R.]

Such recompence becomes Belshazzar's bounty.
 Let the king speak the secret of his soul ;
 Which heard, his humble creatures shall unfold.

B E L S H A Z Z A R, points to the wall.

Be't so—Look there—behold those characters !
 Nay, do not start, for I will know their meaning !
 Ha ! answer ; speak, or instant death awaits you !
 What, dumb ! all dumb ! where is your boasted skill ;
 [They confer together.]
 Keep

Keep them asunder—No confed'racy—
 No secret plots to make your tales agree.
 Speak, slaves, and dare to let me know the worst!

First ASTRONOMER.

[They kneel.

O, let the king forgive his faithful servants !

Second ASTRONOMER.

O mitigate our threaten'd doom of death ;
 If we declare, with mingled grief and shame,
 We cannot tell the secret of the king,
 Nor what these mystic characters portend !

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Off with their heads ! Ye shall not live an hour !
 Curse on your shallow arts, your lying science !
 'Tis thus you practise on the credulous world,
 Who think you wise, because themselves are weak !
 But, miscreants, ye shall die ! the pow'r to punish
 Is all that I have left me of a king.

First COURTIER.

Great Sir ! suspend their punishment awhile.
 Behold sage Nitocris, thy royal mother !

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

My mother here !

Enter QUEEN.

Q U E E N.

O my misguided son !

Well may'st thou wonder to behold me here :

For I have ever shunn'd this scene of riot,
 Where wild Intemperance and dishonour'd Mirth,
 Hold festival impure. Yet, O Belshazzar !
 I cou'd not hear the wonders which befel,
 And leave thee to the workings of despair :
 For, spite of all the anguish of my soul
 At thy offences, I'm thy mother still !
 Against the solemn purpose I had forin'd
 Never to mix in this unhallow'd crowd,
 The wond'rous story of the mystic writing,
 Of strange and awful import, brings me here ;
 If haply I may shew some likely means
 To fathom this dark mystery.

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Speak, C. queen !

My listn'ning soul shall hang upon thy words,
 And prompt obedience follow them !

Q U E E N .

Then hear me . . .

Among the captive tribes, which hither came
 To grace Nebassar's triumph, there was brought
 A youth nam'd Daniel, favour'd by high Heav'n.
 With pow'r to look into the secret page
 Of dim futurity's mysterious volume.
 The spirit of the holy Gods is in him ;
 No vision so obscure, no fate so dark,
 No sentence so perplex'd, but he can solve it :
 Can trace each crooked labyrinth of thought,
 Each winding maze of doubt, and make it clear,
 And palpable to sense. He twice explain'd
 The monarch's mystic dreams. The holy seer

Saw, with prophetic spirit, what befel
 The king long after. For his wond'rous skill
 He was rewarded, honour'd, and caref's'd,
 And with the rulers of Chaldea rank'd :
 Tho' now, alas! thrown by ; his services
 Forgotten or neglected ; such the meed
 Which virtue finds in courts.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Dispatch with speed!

A message, to command the holy man
 To meet us on the instant.

N I T O C R I S.

I already

Have sent to ask his presence at the palace ;
 And, lo ! he comes.

Enter DANIEL.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Welcome, thrice venerable sage ! approach.
 Art thou that Daniel, whom my great forefather
 Brought hither with the captive tribes of Judah ?

D A N I E L.

I am that Daniel.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Pardon, holy Prophet ;

Nor let a just resentment of thy wrongs,
 And long neglected merit, shut thy heart
 Against a king's request, a suppliant king !

D A N I E L.

D A N I E L.

The God I worship teaches to forgive.

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Then let thy words bring comfort to my soul.
I've heard the spirit of the Gods is in thee ;
That thou can't look into the fates of men,
With prescience more than human !

D A N I E L .

Hold, O king !

Wisdom is from above, 'tis God's own gift.
I of myself am nothing ; but from Him
The little knowledge I possess, I held :
To him be all the glory !

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Then, O Daniel !

If thou indeed dost boast that wond'rous gift,
That faculty divine ; look there, and tell me !
O say, what mean those mystic characters ?
Remove this load of terror from my soul ;
And honours, such as kings can give, await thee :
Thou shalt be great beyond thy soul's ambition,
And rich above thy wildest dream of wealth :
Clad in the scarlet robe our nobles wear,
And grac'd with princely ensigns, thou shalt stand
Near our own throne, and third within our empire.

D A N I E L .

O mighty king ! thy gifts with thee remain,
And let thy high rewards on others fall.
The princely ensign, nor the scarlet robe,

Nor yet to be the third within thy realm,
 Can touch the soul of Daniel. Honour, fame,
 All that the world calls great, thy crown itself,
 Cou'd never satisfy the vast ambition
 Of an immortal spirit, which aspires
 To an eternal crown, a crown of glory !

First COURTIER.

[Aside.]

Our priests teach no such notions.

D A N I E L.

Yet, O king !

Tho' all unmov'd by grandeur, or by gift,
 I will unfold the high decrees of Heav'n,
 And strait declare the mystery.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Speak, O Prophet !

D A N I E L.

Prepare to hear, what kings have seldom heard ;
 Prepare to hear, what these have never told thee :
 Prepare to hear the TRUTH. The mighty GOD,
 Who rules the sceptres and the hearts of kings,
 Gave thy renown'd * forefather here to reign,
 With such extent of empire, weight of pow'r,
 And greatness of dominion, the wide earth
 Trembled beneath the terror of his name,
 And kingdoms stood or fell as he decreed.
 Oh ! dangerous pinnacle of pow'r supreme !
 Who can stand safe upon its treach'rous top,

Behold

* Nebuchadnezzar.

Behold the gazing prostrate world below,
 Whom depth and distance into pygmies shrink,
 And not grow giddy ? Babylon's great king
 Forgot he was a man, a helpless man,
 Subject to pain, and sin, and death, like others !
 But who shall fight against Omnipotence ?
 Or who hath harden'd his obdurate heart
 Against the Majesty of Heav'n, and prosper'd ?
 The GOD he had insulted was aveng'd ;
 From empire, from the joys of social life,
 He drove him forth ; extinguish'd reason's lamp,
 Quench'd that bright spark of deity within ;
 Compell'd him, with the forest brutes, to roam
 For scanty pasture ; and the mountain dews
 Fell, cold and wet, on his defenceless head :
 Till he confess'd—Let men, let monarchs hear !—
 Till he confess'd, PRIDE WAS NOT MADE FOR MAN !

N I T O C R I S.

O, awful instance of divine displeasure !

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Proceed ! My soul is wrapt in fix'd attention !

D A N I E L .

O king ! thy grandfire not in vain had sinn'd ;
 If, from his error, thou had'st learnt the truth.
 The story of his fall thou oft hast heard,
 But has it taught thee wisdom ? Thou, like him,
 Hast been elate with pow'r, and mad with pride.
 Like him, thou hast defy'd the Living GOD.
 Nay, to bold thoughts, hast added deeds more bold.
 Thou hast out-wrought the pattern he bequeath'd thee,

And

And quite outgone example ; hast prophan'd,
 With impious hand, the vessels of the Temple :
 Those vessels, sanctified to holiest use,
 Thou hast polluted with unhallow'd lips,
 And made the instruments of foul debauch.
 Thou hast ador'd the gods of wood and stone,
 Vile, senseless deities, the work of hands ;
 But HE, THE KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS,
 In whom exists thy life, thy soul, thy breath,
 On whom thy being hangs, thou hast deny'd.

First COURTIER.

[Aside to the others.]

With what an holy boldness he reproves him !

Second COURTIER.

Such is the fearless confidence of virtue !
 And such the righteous courage those maintain,
 Who plead the cause of truth ! The smallest word,
 He utters, had been death to half the court.

BELSHAZZAR.

Now let the mystic writing be explain'd,
 Thrice venerable sage !

DANIEL.

O mighty king !

Hear then its awful import : God has number'd
Thy days of royalty, and soon will end them.
The All-wise has weigh'd thee in the even balance
Of his own holy law, and finds thee wanting :
And last, Thy kingdom shall be awestruck from thee ;
And know, the Mede and Persian shall possess it.

Q.

B.E.L.

B E L S H A Z Z A R :

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Prophet, when shall this be ?

[He starts up.]

D A N I E L .

In GOD's own time :

Here my commission ends ; I may not utter
More than thou hast heard ; but O ! remember, king !
Thy days are number'd ; here, repent, and live !

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Say, Prophet, what can penitence avail ?
If Heav'n's decrees immutably are fix'd,
Can pray'rs avert our fate ?

D A N I E L .

They change our hearts,
And thus dispose Omnipotence to mercy.
'Tis man that alters, GOD is still the same.
Conditional are all Heav'n's covenants :
And when th' uplifted thunder is with-held,
'Tis pray'r that deprecates th' impending bolt.
Good * Hezekiah's days were number'd too ;
But penitence and tears were mighty pleas ;
At Mercy's throne they never plead in vain.

[He is going.]

B E L S H A Z Z A R .

Stay, Prophet, and receive thy promis'd gift :
The scarlet robe, and princely chain, are thine :

And

* 2 Chron. chap. xxiii. Also Isaiah, chap. xxxviii.

And let my heralds publish through the land,
 That Daniel stands, in dignity and pow'r,
 The third in Babylon. These just rewards
 Thou well may'st claim, though sad thy prophecy !

QUEEN.

Be not deceiv'd, my son ! nor let thy soul
 Snatch an uncertain moment's treach'rous rest,
 On the dread brink of that tremendous gulf
 Which yawns beneath thee.

DANIEL.

O unhappy king !

Know what must happen once, may happen soon.
 Remember, that 'tis terrible to meet
 Great evils unprepar'd ! and, O Belshazzar !
 In the wild moment of dismay and death,
 Remember thou wast warn'd ! and, O ! remember,
 Warnings despis'd are condemnations then !

[Exeunt Daniel and Queen.

BELSHAZZAR.

'Tis well—my soul shakes off its load of care :
 'Tis only the obscure is terrible.
 Imagination frames events unknown,
 In wild fantastic shapes of hideous ruin ;
 And what it fears, creates !—I know the worst ;
 And awful is that worst, as fear could feign :
 But distant are the ills, I have to dread !
 What is remote may be uncertain too !
 Ha ! Princes ! hope breaks in !—This may not be !

First COURTIER.

Perhaps this Daniel is in league with Persia;
 And brib'd by Cyrus to report these horrors,
 To weaken and impede the mighty plans
 Of thy imperial mind!

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

'Tis very like.

Second COURTIER.

Return we to the banquet.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Dare we venture?

Third COURTIER.

Let not this dreaming Seer disturb the king.
 Against the pow'r of Cyrus, and the Mede,
 Is Bâbylon secure. Her brazen gates
 Mock all attempts to force them. Proud Euphrates,
 A watry bulwark, guards our ample city
 From all assailants. And within the walls
 Of this stupendous capital are lodg'd
 Such vast provisions, such exhaustless stores,
 As a twice ten years siege could never waste!

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Embraces him.

My better genius! To the banquet then!

[As they are going to resume their places at the banquet, a dreadful uproar is heard, tumultuous cries, and war-like sounds. All stand terrified. Enter soldiers, with their swords drawn, and wounded.

SOLDIER.

S O L D I E R.

Oh, helpless Babylon ! Oh, wretched king !
 Chaldea is no more, the Mede has conquer'd !
 The victor Cyrus, like a mighty torrent,
 Comes rushing on, and marks his way with ruin !

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Impossible ! Villain and slave thou art !
 Euphrates and the brazen gates secure us.
 While those remain, Belshazzar laughs at danger.

S O L D I E R.

Euphrates is diverted from its course,
 The brazen gates are burst, the city's taken,
 Thyself a pris'ner, and thy empire lost.

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

Oh, Prophet ! I remember thee too soon !

[He runs out. They follow, in the utmost confusion.

Enter several J E W S, M E D E S, and B A B Y-LONIANS.

First J E W.

He comes, he comes ! the long predicted prince,
 Cyrus ! the destin'd instrument of Heav'n,
 To free our captive nation, and restore
 JEHOVAH's Temple ! Carnage marks his way,
 And conquest sits upon his plume-crown'd helm !

Second J E W.

What noise is that ?

First

First J E W.

Hark! 'Tis Belshazzar's voice!

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

[Without.]

O Soldier! spare my life, and aid my flight;
 Such treasures shall reward the gentle deed,
 As Persia never saw! I'll be thy slave;
 I'll yield my crown to Cyrus, I'll adore
 His Gods and thine—I'll kneel and kiss thy feet,
 And worship thee—It is not much I ask—
 I'll live in bondage, beggary, and pain,
 So thou but let me live!

S O L D I E R.

Die, tyrant die!

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

O Daniel! Daniel! Daniel!

Enter S O L D I E R.

S O L D I E R.

Belshazzar's dead!

The wretched king breath'd out his furious soul
 In that tremendous groan.

First J E W.

Belshazzar's dead!

Then, Judah! art thou free! The tyrant's fall'n!
 Jerusalem, Jerusalem is free!

B E L S H A Z Z A R.

P A R T . III.

Enter DANIEL and JEWS.

DANIEL.

B E L boweth down *, and haughty Nebo stoops !
 The idols fall ; the God and worshipper
 Together fall ! together they bow down !
 Each other, or themselves, they cannot save.
 O, Babylon ! where is thy refuge now ?
 Thy wisdom and thy knowledge, meant to save,
 Pervert thee ; and thy blessing is thy bane !
 Where are thy brutish deities, Chaldea ?
 Where are thy gods of gold ?—Oh, Lord of life !
 Thou very GOD ! so fall thy foes before thee !

First JEW.

So fell beneath the terrors of thy name
 The idol Chemosh, Moab's empty trust ;

So

* Isaiah, chap. xlvi.

So Ammonitish Moloch sunk before thee ;
 So fell Philistine Dagon : so shall fall,
 To time's remotest period, all thy foes !

D A N I E L.

Not for myself, O Judah ! but for thee,
 I shed these tears of joy. For I no more
 Must view the cedars which adorn the brow
 Of Syrian Lebanon ; no more shall see
 Thy pleasant stream, O Jordan ! nor the flocks,
 Which whiten all the mountains of Judea ;
 Nor Carmel's heights, nor Sharon's flow'ry vales.
 I must remain in Babylon ! So Heav'n,
 To whose awards I bow me, has decreed.
 I ne'er shall see thee, Salem ! I am old ;
 And few, and toilsome, are my days to come.
 But we shall meet in those celestial climes,
 Compar'd with which created glories sink :
 Where sinners shall have pow'r to harm no more,
 And martyr'd Virtue rests her weary head.
 Tho' ere my day of promis'd grace shall come,
 I shall be try'd by perils strange and new ;
 Nor shall I taste of death, so have I learn'd,
 'Till I have seen the captive tribes restor'd.

First J E W.

And shall we view, once more, thy hallow'd tow'rs,
 Imperial Salem ?

D A N I E L.

Yes, my youthful friends !
 You shall behold the second * temple rise,

With

With grateful ecstacy : but we, your fires,
 Now bent with hoary age ; we, whose charm'd eyes
 Beheld the matchless glories of the first,
 Shou'd weep, rememb'ring what we once had seen,
 That model of perfection !

Second J E W.

Never more
 Shall such another structure grace the earth ?

D A N I E L.

Well have you borne affliction, men of Judah !
 Well have sustain'd your portion of distress ;
 And unrepining, drank the bitter dregs
 Of adverse fortune ! Happier days await you.
 O guard against the perils of success !
 Prosperity dissolves the yielding soul,
 And the bright Sun of shining fortune melts
 The firmest virtue down. Beware, my friends,
 Be greatly cautious of prosperity !
 Defend your sliding hearts ; and, trembling, think
 How those, who buffeted affliction's waves
 With vig'rous virtue, sunk in Pleasure's calm.
 He *, who of special grace had been allow'd
 To rear the hallow'd fane to Israel's God,
 By wealth corrupted, and by ease debauch'd,
 Forsook the God to whom he rais'd the fane ;
 And, sunk in sensual sloth, consum'd his days,
 In vile idolatrous rites ! — Nor think, my sons,
 That virtue in sequester'd solitude

R

Is

* Solomon.

Is always found. Within the inmost soul
 The hidden tempter lurks ; nor less betrays,
 In the still, seeming safety of retreat,
 Than where the treach'rous world delusive smiles.
 Who thinks himself secure, is half undone ;
 For sin, unwatch'd, may reach the sanctuary :
 No place preserves us from it. Righteous Lot
 Stemmin'd the strong current of corruption's tide,
 Ev'n in polluted Sodom ; safe he liv'd,
 While circumspective Virtue's watchful eye
 Was anxiously awake : but in the thade,
 Far from the threat'ning perils which alarm
 With visible temptation, secret sin
 Ensnar'd him ; in security he fell.

Second J E W.

Thy prudent counsels in our hearts shall live,
 As if a pen of adamant had grav'd them.

First J E W.

The dawn approaches ; let us part, my friend,
 Secure of peace, since tyranny is fall'n !

D A N I E L.

So perish all thine enemies, O L O R D !
 So mighty G O D ! shall perish all, who seek Corrupted pleasures in the turbid waves
 Of life's polluted stream ; and madly quit
 The living fountain of perennial grace !

The Righteous is delivered out of trouble, and the Wicked cometh in his stead.—PROVERBS of SOLOMON.

On peut des plus grands rois surprendre la justice.

ESTHER. TRAGÉDIE de RACINE.

P H A R N A C E S, S O R A N U S.

P H A R N A C E S.

Y E S!—I have noted, with a jealous eye,
The pow'r of this new fav'rite! Daniel reigns,
And not Darius! Daniel guides the springs
Which move this mighty empire! High he sits,
Supreme in favour both with prince and people!

Where

Where is the spirit of our Median lords,
 Tamely to crouch and bend the supple knee
 To this new god? By Mi-hras, 'tis too much!
 Shall great Arbaces' race to Daniel bow?
 A foreigner, a captive, and a Jew?
 Something must be devis'd, and that right soon,
 To shake his credit.

S O R A N U S .

Rather hope to shake
 The mountain pine, whose twisting fibres clasp
 The earth; deep rooted! Rather hope to shake
 The Scythian Taurus from his central base!
 No—Daniel fits too absolute in pow'r,
 Too firm in favour, for the keenest shaft
 Of nicely-aiming jealousy to reach him.

P H A R N A C E S .

Rather he fits too high to fit securely.
 Hast thou then liv'd in courts? hast thou grown grey,
 Beneath the mask a subtil statesman wears
 To hide his secret soul, and dost not know
 That, of all fickle Fortune's transient gifts,
 Favour is most deceitful? 'Tis a bairn,
 Which darts uncertain brightness for a moment!
 The faint, precarious, sickly shine of pow'r;
 Giv'n without merit, by caprice withdrawn.
 No trifle is so small as what obtains,
 Save that which loses it. It is a breath,
 Which hangs upon a smile! A look, a word;
 A frown, the air-built tow'r of favour shakes,
 And down the unsubstantial fabric falls!
 Darius, just and clement as he is,

If I mistake not, may be wrought upon
 By prudent wiles, by Flattery's pleasant cup,
 Administer'd with caution.

S O R A N U S.

But the means?

For Daniel's life (a foe must grant him that)
 Is so replete with goodness, to adorn'd
 With every virtue, so exactly squar'd
 By wisdom's nicest rules, that 'twere most hard
 To charge him with the shadow of offence.
 Pure is his fame, as Scythia's mountain snows,
 When not a breath pollutes them! O Pharnaces!
 I've scann'd the action's of his daily life
 With all th' industrious malice of a foe;
 And nothing meets mine eye but deeds of honour!
 In office pure; for equitable acts
 Renown'd: in justice and impartial truth,
 The Grecian Themis is not more severe.

P H A R N A C E S.

By yon bright sun, thou blazon'st forth his praise,
 As if with rapture thou didst read the page,
 Where these fair deeds are written!

S O R A N U S.

Thou mistak'st.

I only meant to shew, what cause we have
 To hate and fear him. I but meant to paint
 His popular virtues, and his dang'rous merit.
 Then for devotion, an' religious zeal,
 Who so renown'd as Daniel? Of his law
 Observant in th' extreme. Thrice ev'ry day,

With

With prostrate rev'rence, he adores his God :
 With superstitious awe his face he turns
 Tow'rds his belov'd Jerusalem ; as if
 Some local, partial God might there be found
 To hear his supplication. No affair
 Of state ; no busines so importunate ;
 No pleasure so alluring ; no employ
 Of such high import, to seduce his zeal
 From this observance due !

P H A R N A C E S .

There, there he falls !

Enough, my friend ! His piety destroys him.
 There, at the very footstool of his God,
 Where he implores protection, there I'll crush him !

S O R A N U S .

What means Pharnaces ?

P H A R N A C E S .

Ask not what I mean !

The new idea floating in my brain,
 Has yet receiv'd no form. 'Tis yet too soon
 To give it body, circumstance, or breath.
 The seeds of mighty deeds are lab'ring here,
 And struggling for a birth ! 'Tis near the hour
 The king is wont to summon us to council.
 Ere that, this big conception of my mind
 I'll shape to form and being. Thou, meanwhile,
 Convene our chosen friends ; for I shall need
 The aid of all your counsels, and the weight
 Of grave authority.

S O R A N U S .

Who shall be trusted ?

PHAR-

P H A R N A C E S.

With our immediate motive, none, except
 A chosen band of friends, who most repine
 At Daniel's Exaltation. But the scheme
 I meditate, must be disclos'd to all
 Who bear high office; all our Median rulers,
 Princes and captains, presidents and lords;
 All must assemble! 'Tis a common cause;
 All but the young Araspes, he inclines
 To Daniel and his God. He sits attent,
 With ravish'd ears, to listen to his lore:
 With rev'rence names Jerusalem, and reads
 The volume of the law! No more he bows,
 To hail the golden Ruler of the Day;
 But looks for some great Prophet, greater far,
 So they pretend, than Mithras! From him, therefore,
 Conceal whate'er of injury is devis'd
 'Gainst Daniel. Be it too thy care to-day,
 To keep him from the council.

S O R A N U S.

'Tis well thought.

'Tis now about the hour of Daniel's pray'r,
 Araspes too is with him; and to-day
 They will not sit in council. Haste we then!
 Designs of high importance, once conceiv'd,
 Shou'd be accomplish'd. Genius to discern,
 And courage to atchieve, despise the aid
 Of ling'ring circumspection. The keen spirit
 Seizes the prompt occasion, and at once
 Plans and performs, resolves and executes!

 Enlighten my dark mind with this new ray,
 This dawning of salvation ! Tell me more
 Of this expected King ! this Prince of Peace !
 This Promise of the nations ! this great Hope
 Of anxious Israël ! This mighty Prophet !
 This Balm of Gilead, which shall heal the wounds
 Of universal nature ! this MESSIAH !
 Redeemer, saviour, sufferer, victim, GOD !

 Our path we see, the rest is hid in clouds;

Go on, blest sage! I cou'd for ever hear,
 Untir'd, thy admonition! Tell me, how
 I shall obtain the favour of that GOD
 I but begin to know.

D A N I E L.

By holy deeds,

By deep humility, by faith unfeign'd.
 O Faith *, thou wonder-working principle!
 Eternal substance of our present hope,
 Thou evidence of things invisible!
 What cannot man sustain, sustain'd by thee?
 The time wou'd fail, and the bright star of day
 Wou'd quench his beams in ocean, and resign
 His empire to the silver queen of night;
 And she again descend the steep of heav'n,
 If I shou'd tell what wonders Faith atchiev'd,
 By Gideon, Barak, and the sapient seer,
 Elkanah's son; the pious Gileadite,
 Ill-fated Jephthah! He of † Zorah too,
 In strength unequall'd; and the shepherd-king,
 Who slew the giant of Gath! Why shou'd I tell
 Of holy Prophets, who, by conquering Faith,
 Wrought deeds incredible to mortal sense;

 Of furious pestilence, extinguish'd fire?
 Victorious Faith! others by thee endur'd
 Exile, disgrace, captivity, and death!
 Some, uncomplaining, bore (nor be it deem'd
 The meanest exercise of well-try'd Faith)
 The bitter taunts of undeserv'd reproach;
 Despising shame, that death to human pride!

A R A S P E S.

How shall this faith be sought?

D A N I E L.

By earnest pray'r.

Solicit first the wisdōm from above;
 Wisdom *, whose fruits are purity and peace!
 Wisdōm! that bright intelligence, which sat
 Supreme, when with his golden † compasses
 Th' Eternal plann'd the fabric of the world,
 Produc'd his fair idea into light,
 And said, That all was good! Wisdom, blest beam!
 The brightness of the everlasting light!
 The spotless mirror of the pow'r of GOD!
 The reflex image of th' all-perfect mind!
 A stream translucent, flowing from the source
 Of glory infinite; a cloudless light!
 Defilement cannot touch, nor sin pollute
 Her unstain'd purity! Not Ophir's gold,

 The diamond of the mine is pale before her!
 And, like the oil Elisha's bounty bless'd,
 She is a treasure which doth grow by use,
 And multiply by spending! she contains,
 Within herself, the sum of excellence,
 If riches are desir'd, wisdom is wealth!
 If prudence, where shall keen invention find
 Artificer more cunning? If renown,
 In her right-hand it comes! If piety,
 Are not her labours virtues? If the lore
 Which sage experience teaches, lo! she scans
 Antiquity's dark truths; the past she knows,
 Anticipates the future; not by arts
 Forbidden, of Chaldean sorcerer;
 But from the piercing ken of deep foreknowledge;
 From her sure science of the human heart;
 Weighing effects with causes, ends with means;
 And from the probable the certain forms,
 With palpable conjecture!

A R A S P E S.

Now, O Prophet!

Explain the secret doubts which rack my mind,
 And my weak sense confound. Give me some line
 To sound the depths of Providence! O fay,
 Why the ungodly prosper? why their root
 Shoots deep, and their thick branches flourish fair,
 Like the green bay tree? why the righteous man,
 Like tender plants, to shiv'ring winds expos'd,
 Is stripp'd and torn, in naked virtue bare,
 And nipp'd by cruel sorrow's biting blast?
 Explain, O Daniel! these mysterious ways,

To my faint apprehension! For as yet
I've much to learn.. Fair Truth's immortal sun
Is sometimes hid in clouds; not that her light
Is in itself defective; but obscur'd
By my weak prejudice, imperfect Faith,
And all the thousand causes which obstruct
The growth of virtue.

D A N I E L.

Follow me, Araspe!*

Within, thou shalt peruse the sacred page,
The book of Life eternal! there thou wilt see
The END of the ungodly; thou wilt own
How short their longest period; wilt perceive
How black a night succeeds their brightest day!
Weigh well this book; and may the Spirit of Grace,
Who stamp'd the seal of truth on the bless'd page,
Descend into thy soul, remove thy doubts,
Clear the perplex'd, and solve the intricate,
Till Faith be lost in sight, and Hope in joy!

DARIUS on his throne. PHARNACES, SO-RANUS, PRINCES, PRESIDENTS, and COURTIERS.

PHARNACES.

O KING Darius, live for ever!

DARIUS.

Welcome!

Welcome, my princes, presidents and friends!
Now tell me, has your wisdom ought devis'd
To serve the common weal? In our new empire,
Subdued Chaldea, is there ought remains
Your prudence can suggest, to serve the state,
To benefit the subject, to redress
And raise the injur'd? to assist th' oppress'd,
And humble the oppressor? If you know,

Speak

Speak freely, princes ! Wherefore am I king,
 Except to poise the awful scale of justice
 With even hand ; to minister to want,
 To bless the nations with a lib'ral rule,
 Vicegerent of th' eternal Oromasdes !

P H A R N A C E S .

So absolute thy wisdom, mighty king !
 All counsel were superfluous.

D A R I U S .

Held, Pharnaces.

No flatt'ry, prince ; it is the death of virtue ;
 Who gives it is of all mankind the lowest,
 Save he who takes it. Monarchs are but men ;
 As feeble and as frail as those they rule,
 And born, like them, to die. The Lydian king,
 Unhappy Croesus ! lately sat aloft,
 Almost above mortality ; now see him,
 Sunk to the vile condition of a slave,
 He swells the train of Cyrus ! I, like him,
 To mis'ry am obnoxious. See this throne :
 This very throne the great * Nebassar fill'd ;
 Yet hence his pride expell'd him ! Yonder wall,
 The dread terrific writing to the eyes
 Of proud Belshazzar shew'd ; sad monuments
 Of Heav'n's tremendous vengeance ! and shall I,
 Unwarn'd by such examples, cherish pride ?
 Yet to their dire calamities I owe
 The brightest gem that glistens in my crown,

Sage

* Nebuchadnezzar.

Sage Daniel. If my speech have ought of worth,
Or if my life with ought of good be grac'd,
To him 'alone I owe it.

S O R A N U S. [Aside to Pharnaces.

Now, Pharnaces,

Will he run o'er, and dwell upon his praise,
As if we ne'er had heard it; nay, will fwell
The nauseous catalogue with many a virtue
His own fond fancy coins.

P H A R N A C E S.

O, great Darius!

Let thine unworthy servant's words find grace;
And meet acceptance in his royal ear,
Who subjugates the East! Let not the king
With anger hear my pray'r.

D A R I U S.

Pharnaces, speak!

I know thou lov'st me: I but meant to chide
Thy flatt'ry, not reprove thee for thy zeal.
Speak boldly, friends, as man shou'd speak to man.
Perish the barb'rous maxims of the East,
Which basely wou'd enslave the free-born mind,
And plunder it of the best gift of Heav'n,
Its liberty!

P H A R N A C E S.

Then, O Darius, hear me!

Thy princes, and the captains of thy bands,
Thy presidents, the governors who rule
Thy provinces, and I, thine humble creature

(Leſs

Less than the least in merit, but in love,
 In zeal, and duty, equal with the first;)
 We have devis'd a measure to confirm
 Thy infant empire; to establish here
 Thy pow'r with firm dominion, and secure
 Thy growing greatness past the pow'r of change.

D A R I U S.

I am prepar'd to hear thee. Speak, Pharnaces!

P H A R N A C E S.

The wretched Babylonians long have groan'd
 Beneath the rule of princes, weak or rash.
 The rod of pow'r was falsely fway'd alike,
 By feeble Merodach, and fierce Belshazzar.
 One let the slacken'd reins too loofely float
 Upon the people's neck, and lost his pow'r
 By nervelefs relaxation. He, who follow'd,
 Held with a tyrant's hand the cruel curb,
 And check'd the groaning nation till it bled.
 On diff'rent rocks they met one common ruin.
 Their edicts were irresolute, their laws
 Were feebly plann'd, their councils ill-advis'd;
 Now so relax'd, and now so overstrain'd,
 That the tir'd people, wearied with the weight
 They long have borne, will soон disdain controul,
 Tread on all rule, and spurn the hand that guides 'em.

D A R I U S.

But say what remedy?

P H A R N A C E S.

That too, O king !

Thy servants have provided. Hitherto
 They bear the yoke submissive. But to fix
 Thy pow'r, and their obedience ; to reduce
 All hearts to thy dominion, yet avoid
 Those deeds of cruelty thy nature starts at—
 Thou shou'dst begin by some imperial act
 Of absolute dominion, yet unstain'd
 By ought of barbarous. For know, O king !
 Wholesome severity, if wisely rul'd,
 With sober discipline, procures respect,
 More than the lenient counsels and weak measures,
 Of frail irresolution.

D A R I U S.

Now proceed

To thy request.

P H A R N A C E S.

Not I, but all request it.

Be thy imperial edict issued strait,
 And let a firm decree this day be pass'd,
 Irrevocable, as our Median laws
 Ordain, that for the space of thirty days,
 No subject in thy realm shall ought request
 Of God, or man, except of thee, O king !

D A R I U S.

Wherefore this strange decree ?

P H A R N A C E S.

'Twill fix the crown

With lasting safety on thy royal brow ;

And

And by a bloodless means preserve th' obedience
 Of this new empire. Think how much 'twill raise
 Thy high renown ! 'Twill make thy name rever'd,
 And popular beyond example. What !
 To be as Heav'n, dispensing good and ill
 For thirty days ! With thine own ears to hear
 Thy people's wants, with thine own lib'ral hands
 To bless thy suppliant subjects ! O Darius !
 Thou'l seem as bounteous as a giving God !
 And reign in ev'ry heart in Babylon,
 As well as Media. What a glorious state,
 To be the blessed arbiter of good ;
 The first efficient cause of happiness !
 To scatter mercies with a plenteous hand,
 And to be blest thyself in blessing others !

DARIUS.

Is this the gen'ral wish ?

[The Princes and Courtiers kneel.

Chief PRESIDENT.

Of one, of all.

Behold thy princes, presidents, and lords,
 Thy counsellors, and captains ! See, O king !

[Presenting the Edict.

Behold the instrument our zeal has drawn ;
 The edict is prepar'd. We only wait
 The confirmation of thy gracious word,
 And thy imperial signet.

DARIUS.

Say, Pharnaces,

What penalty awaits the man who dares
 Transgres our mandate ?

P H A R N A C E S.

Instant death, O king !

This statute says, " Should any subject dare
 " Petition, for the space of thirty days,
 " Of God, or man, except of thee, O king !
 " He shall be thrown into yon' dreadful den
 " Of hungry lions ! "

D A R I U S.

Hold ! Methinks a deed

Of such importaace shou'd be wisely weigh'd.

P H A R N A C E S.

We have revolv'd it, mighty king, with care,
 With closest scrutiny.

D A R I U S.

I'm satisfy'd.

Then to your wisdom I commit me, princes !
 Behold the royal signet, see, 'tis done !

P H A R N A C E S.

[Aside.

There Daniel fell ! That signet seal'd his doom !

D A R I U S.

[After a pause.

Let me reflect !—Sure I have been too rash !
 Why such intemperate haste ? But you are wise ;
 And would not counsel this severe decree
 But for the wisest purpose. Yet, methinks
 I might have weigh'd, and in my mind revolv'd
 This statute, ere, the royal signet stamp'd,
 It had been past repeal ! Sage Daniel too !
 My counsellor, my venerable friend,

He shou'd have been consulted ; for his wisdom
I still have found oracular.

PHARNA CES.

Mighty king !

'Tis as it should be ! The decree is past
Irrevocable, as the steadfast law
Of Mede and Persian, which can never change.
Those who observe it live, as is most meet,
High in thy grace ; who violate it, die.

D A N I E L :

P A R T IV.

S C E N E, DANIEL's House.

DANIEL, ARASPE S.

A R A S P E S :

O H, holy Daniel ! prophet, father, friend !
I come, the wretched messenger of ill !
Thy foes complot thy death. For what can mean
This new-made law, extorted from the king,
Almost by force ? What can it mean, O Daniel !
But to involve thee in the toils they spread
To snare thy precious life ?

DANIEL.

D A N I E L.

How ! was the king

Consenting to this edict ?

A R A S P E S.

They surpris'd

His easy nature ; took him when his heart
 Was soften'd by their blandishments ! They wore
 The mask of public virtue to deceive him.
 Beneath the specious name of gen'ral good,
 They wrought him to their purposes : no time
 Allow'd him to deliberate. One short hour,
 Another moment, and his soul had gain'd
 Her natural tone of virtue.

D A N I E L.

That great Pow'r

Who suffers evil, only to produce
 Some unseen good, permits that this shou'd be :
 And, HE permitting, I, well pleas'd, resign !
 Retire, my friend ! This is my second hour
 Of daily pray'r. Anon we'll meet again !
 Here, in the open face of that bright sun
 Thy fathers worshipp'd, will I offer up,
 As is my rule, petition to our GOD,
 For thee, for me, for Solyma, for all !

A R A S P E S.

Oh, stay ! what mean'st thou ! sure thou hast not heard
 The edict of the king ? I thought, but now,
 Thou knew'st its purport. It expressly says,
 That no petition henceforth shall be made,
 For thirty days, save only to the king ;

Nor pray'r nor intercession shall be heard
Of any God, or man, but of Darius.

DANIEL.

And think'st thou then my rey'rence for the king,
Good as he is, shall tempt me to renounce
My sworn allegiance to the King of kings?
Hast thou command'd legions, tempted death
In various shapes, and shrink'st at danger now?
Come, learn of me; I'll teach thee to be bold,
Tho' sword I never drew! Fear not, Araspes,
The feeble vengeance of a mortal man,
Whose breath is in his nostrils; for wherein
Is he to be accounted of? but fear
Th' awaken'd vengeance of the living LORD;
He who can plunge the everlasting soul
In infinite perdition!

ARASPES.

Then, O Daniel!
If thou persist to disobey the edict,
Retire, and hide thee from the prying eyes
Of busy malice!

DANIEL.

He who is ashain'd
To vindicate the honour of his GOD,
Of him the living LORD shall be ashain'd,
When he shall judge the tribes!

ARASPES.

Yet, O remember,
Oft have I heard thee say, the secret heart
Is fair Devotion's Temple; there the saint,

Ev'n on that living altar, lights the flame
 Of purest sacrifice, which burns unseen,
 Not unaccepted.—I remember too,
 When Syrian Naaman *, by Elisha's hand,
 Was cleans'd from foul pollution, and his mind,
 Enlighten'd by the miracle, confess'd
 The Almighty GOD of Jacob, that he deem'd it
 No flagrant violation of his faith,
 To bend at Rimmon's shrine ; nor did the Seer
 Forbid the rite external.

D A N I E L.

Know, Araspes,

(Heav'n deigns to suit our trials to our strength !
 A recent convert, feeble in his faith,
 Naaman, perhaps, had sunk beneath the weight
 Of so severe a duty. But shall I,
 Shall Daniel, shall the servant of the Lord,
 A vet'ran in his cause ; one train'd to know,
 And do his will ; one exercis'd in woe,
 Bred in captivity, and born to suffer ;
 Shall I, from known, from certain duty shrink
 To shun a threaten'd danger ? O, Araspes !
 Shall I, advanc'd in age, in zeal decline ?
 Grow careless as I reach my journey's end ?
 And slacken in my pace, the goal in view ?
 Perish discretion, when it interferes
 With duty ! Perish the safe policy
 Of human wit, where GOD's eternal name
 Is put in competition ! Shall his law.

Be

Be fet at nought, that I may live at ease?
 How would the heathen triumph, should I fall
 Thro' coward fear! How wou'd GOD's enemies
 Insultingly blaspheme!

ARASPE S.

Yet think a moment.

DANIEL.

No!

Where evil may be done, 'tis right to ponder:
 Where only suffer'd, know, the shortest pause
 Is much too long. Had great Darius paus'd,
 This ill had been prevented. But for me,
 Araspe! to deliberate is to sin.

ARASPE S.

Think of thy pow'r, thy favour with Darius:
 Think of thy life's importance to the tribes,
 Scarce yet return'd in safety. Live! O, live!
 To serve the cause of GOD!

DANIEL.

GOD will sustain

Himself his righteous cause. He knows to raise
 Fit instruments to serve him. As for me,
 The spacious earth holds not a bait to tempt me.
 What wou'd it profit me, if I shou'd gain
 Imperial Ecbatan, th' extended land
 Of fruitful Media, nay, the world's wide round,
 If my eternal soul must be the price?
 Farewell, my friend! time pres'les. I have stol'n
 Some moments from my duty, to confirm,
 And strengthen thy young faith! Let us fulfil
 What Heav'n enjoins, and leave to Heav'n th' event!

SCENE, The Palace.

PHARNACES, SORANUS.

PHARNACES.

TIS done—success has crown'd our scheme, Soranus;
 And Daniel falls into the deep-laid toils
 Our prudence spread.

SORANUS.

That he shou'd fall so soon,
 Astonishes ev'n me! What! not a day,
 No, not a single moment to defer
 His rash devotions? Madly thus to rush
 On certain peril quite transcends belief!
 When happen'd it, Pharnaces?

PHAR-

PHARNACES.

On the instant :

Scarce is the deed accomplish'd. As he made
 His ostentatious pray'r, ev'n in the face
 Of the bright God of Day, all Babylon
 Beheld the insult offer'd to Darius.
 For, as in bold defiance of the law,
 His windows were not clos'd. Our chosen bands,
 Whom we had plac'd to note him, strait rush'd in,
 And seiz'd him in the warmth of his blind zeal,
 Ere half his pray'r was finish'd. Young Araspes,
 With all the wild extravagance of grief,
 Prays, weeps, and threatens. Daniel silent stands,
 With patient resignation, and prepares
 To follow them.—But see ! the king approaches !

SORANUS.

How's this ? deep sorrow fits upon his brow !
 And stern resentment fires his angry eye !

DARIUS, PHARNACES, SORANUS.

DARIUS.

O, deep-laid stratagem ! O, artful wile !
 To take me unprepar'd ! to wound my heart,
 Ev'n where it feels most tenderly, in friendship !
 To stab my fame ! to hold me up a mark
 To future ages, for the perjur'd prince,
 Who flew the friend he lov'd ! O Daniel ! Daniel !
 Who now shall trust Darius ? Not a slave
 Within my empire, from the Indian main
 To the cold Caspian, but is more at ease
 Than I, his monarch ! I have done a deed

Will blot my honour with eternal stain!
 Pharnaces! O, thou hoary scycophant!
 Thou wily politician! thou hast snar'd
 Thy unsuspecting master!

P H A R N A C E S.

Great Darius

Let not resentment blind thy royal eyes.
 In what am I to blame? who cou'd foresee
 This obstinate resistance to the law?
 Who cou'd foresee that Daniel wou'd, perforce,
 Oppose the king's decree?

D A R I U S.

Thou, thou foresaw'st it!

Thou knew'st his righteous soul wou'd ne'er endure
 So long an interval of pray'r. But I,
 Deluded king! 'Twas I shou'd have foreseen
 His stedfast piety. I shou'd have thought,
 Your earnest warmth had some more selfish source,
 Something that touch'd you nearer, than your love,
 Your counterfeited zeal for me.—Thou knew'st
 How dear I held him: how I priz'd his truth!
 Did I not chuse him from a subject world,
 Unbless'd by fortune, and by birth ungrac'd,
 A captive and a Jew? and yet I lov'd him!
 Was he not rich in independent worth?
 There, there he fell! If he had been less great,
 He had been safe. Thou cou'dst not bear his brightness;
 The lustre of his virtues quite obscur'd,
 And dimm'd thy fainter merit. Rasha old man!
 Go, and devise some means to set me free
 From this dread load of guilt! Go, set at work

Thy

Thy plotting genius to redeem the life
Of venerable Daniel !

PHARNACES.

'Tis too late.

He has offended 'gainst the new decree ;
Has dar'd to make petition to his God,
Altho' the dreadful sentence of the act
Full well he knew. And by th' establish'd law
Of Media, by that law irrevocable,
Which he has dar'd to violate, he dies !

DARIUS.

Impiety ! presumption ! monstrous pride !—
Irrevocable ? Is there ought on earth
Deserves that name ? Th' eternal laws alone
Of Orofmasdes claim it. But, alas !
All human projects are so faintly fram'd,
So feebly plann'd, so liable to change,
So mix'd with error in their very form,
That mutable and mortal are the same.
But where is Daniel ? Wherefore comes he not
To load me with reproaches ? to upbraid me
With all the wrongs my barb'rous haste has done him ?
Where is he ?

PHARNACES.

He prepares to meet his fate.
This hour he dies, for so the act decrees.

DARIUS.

Suspend the bloody sentence ! Bring him hither !
Or rather let me seek him, and implore
His dying pardon, and his parting pray'r.

DANIEL,

P. A. R. T. VI.

D A N I E L A R A S P E S.

A R A S P E S.

STILL let me follow thee; still let me hear
The voice of Wisdom, ere the silver cord
By Death's cold hand be loosen'd.

D A N I E L.

Now I'm ready!

No grief; no woman's weakness, good Araspes!
Thou shou'dst rejoice my pilgrimage is o'er;
And the blest haven of repose in view.

A R A S P E S.

ARASPEs.

And must I loose thee, Daniel? must thou die?

DANIEL.

And what is death, my friend, that I shou'd fear it?
 To die! why 'tis to triumph; 'tis to join
 The great assembly of the good and just;
 Immortal worthies, heroes, prophets, saints!
 Oh! 'tis to join the band of holy men,
 Made perfect by their suff'rings! 'Tis to meet
 My great progenitors! 'tis to behold
 Th' illustrious Patriarchs; they, with whom the Lord
 Deign'd hold familiar converse! 'Tis to see
 Bless'd Noah and his children, once a world!
 'Tis to behold (oh! rapture to conceive!)
 Those we have known, and lov'd, and lost, below!
 Bold Azariah, and the band of brothers,
 Who fought, in bloom of youth, the scorching flames!
 Nor is it to behold heroic men
 Alone, who fought the fight of faith on earth;
 But heav'nly conquerors, angelic hosts,
 Michael and his bright legions, who subdued
 The foes of truth! To join their blest employ
 Of love and praise! To the high melodies
 Of choirs celestial to attune my voice,
 Accordant to the golden harps of saints!
 To join in bless'd hosannahs to their King!
 Whose face to see, whose glory to behold,
 Alone were heav'n, tho' saint or seraph none
 There were beside, and only He were there!
 This is to die! Who wou'd not die for this?
 Who wou'd not die, that he might live for ever?

DARIUS, DANIEL, ARASPES.

D A R I U S.

Where is he? Where is Daniel? Let me see him!
 Let me embrace that venerable form,
 Which I have doom'd to glut the greedy maw
 Of furious lions!

D A N I E L.

King Darius, hail!

D A R I U S.

O, injur'd Daniel! can I see thee thus?
 Thus uncomplaining? can I bear to hear
 That when the ruffian ministers of death
 Stopp'd thy unfinish'd pray'r, thy pious lips
 Had just invok'd a blessing on Darius,
 On him who fought thy life? Thy murd'rers dropt
 Tears of strange pity. Look not on me thus,
 With mild benignity! Oh! I could bear
 The voice of keen reproach, or the strong flush
 Of fierce resentment; but I cannot stand
 That touching silence, nor that patient eye
 Of meek respect!

D A N I E L.

Thou art my master still.

D A R I U S.

I am thy murd'rer! I have sign'd thy death!

D A N I E L.

I know thy bent of soul is honourable:
 Thou hast been gracious still! Had it been otherwise,
 I wou'd

I wou'd have met th' appointment of high Heav'a
 With humble acquiescence ; but to know,
 Thy will concurr'd not with thy servant's fate,
 Adds joy to resignation.

DARIUS.

Here I swear,
 By him who sits in thron'd in yon bright sun,
 Thy blood shall be aton'd ! On these, thy foes,
 Thou shalt have ample vengeance.

DANIEL.

Hold, O king !
 Vengeance is mine, th' eternal Lord has said ;
 And I will recompence, with even hand,
 The sinner for the sin. The wrath of man
 Works not the righteousness of God.

DARIUS.

I had hop'd
 We shou'd have trod this busy stage together,
 A little longer ; then have sunk to rest,
 In honourable age ! Who now shall guide
 My shatter'd bark in safety ? who shall now
 Direct me ? O, unhappy state of kings !
 'Tis well the robe of majesty is gay,
 Or who wou'd put it on ? A crown ! what is it ?
 It is to bear the mis'ries of a people !
 To hear their murmurs, feel their discontents,
 And sink beneath a load of splendid care !
 To have your best success ascrib'd to Fortune,
 And Fortune's failures all ascrib'd to you !

It is to sit upon a joyless height,
 To every blast of changing fate expos'd !
 Too high for hope ! too great for happiness !
 For friendship too much fear'd ! To all the joys
 Of social freedom, and th' endearing charm
 Of lib'ral interchange of soul unknown !
 Fate meant me an exception to the rest,
 And, tho' a monarch, blefs'd me with a friend ;
 And I—have murder'd him !

D A N I E L.

My hour approaches !
 Hate not my mem'ry, king, protect Araspes.
 Encourage Cyrus in the holy work
 Of building ruin'd Solyma. Farewell !

D A R I U S.

With most religious strictnes I'll fulfil
 Thy last request. Araspes shall be next
 My throne and heart. Farewell ! [They embrace.]
 Hear, future kings !
 Ye unborn rulers of the nations, hear !
 Learn from my crime, from my misfortune learn,
 Never to trust to weak, or wicked hands,
 That delegated pow'r, which Oromasdes
 Inveils in monarchs for the public good.

D A R I U S.

O H, good Araspes! what a night of horror!
 To me the dawning day brings no return
 Of cheerfulness or peace! No balmy sleep
 Has seal'd these eyes, no nourishment has past
 These loathing lips, since Daniel's fate was sign'd!
 Hear what my fruitless penitence resolves—
 The thirty days my rashness had decreed
 The edict's force shou'd last, I will devote
 To mourning and repentance, fasting, pray'r,
 And all due rites of grief. For thirty days,
 No pleasant sound of dulcimer or harp,
 Sackbut, or flute, or psaltry shall charm
 My ear, now dead to ev'ry note of joy!

A R A S P E S.

My grief can know no period!

D A R I U S.

See, that den!

There Daniel met the furious lions' rage!
 There were the patient martyr's mangled limbs
 Torn piece-meal! Never hide thy tears, Araspes;
 'Tis virtuous sorrow, unallay'd like mine
 By guilt and fell remorse! Let us approach.
 Who knows but that dread pow'r, to whom he pray'd
 So often and so fervently, has heard him!

[He goes to the mouth of the den.

O, Daniel, servant of the living God!
 He whom thou hast serv'd so long, and lov'd so well,
 From the devouring lions' famish'd jaw,
 Can he deliver thee?

D A N I E L. [From the bottom of the den.

He can, he has!

D A R I U S.

Methought, I heard him speak!

A R A S P E S.

O wond'rous force

Of strong imagination! were thy voice
 Loud as the trumpet's blast, it cou'd not wake him
 From that eternal sleep!

D A N I E L.

[In the den.

Hail! king Darius!

The God I serve has shut the lion's mouth,
 To vindicate my innocence.

D A R I U S.

DARIUS.

He speaks!

He lives!

ARASPE.

'Tis no illusion: 'tis the sound
Of his known voice.

DARIUS.

Where are my servants? hasten,

Fly swift as light'ning; free him from the den,
Release him, bring him hither! Break the seal
Which keeps him from me! See, Araspes! look!
See the charm'd lions!—Mark their mild demeanor;
Araspes, mark!—they have no pow'r to hurt him!
See how they hang their heads, and smooth their fierceness,
At his mild aspect!

ARASPE.

Who that sees this fight,

Who that in after-times shall hear this told,
Can doubt if Daniel's God be GOD indeed?

DARIUS.

None, none, Araspes!

ARASPE.

Ah! he comes; he comes!

Enter DANIEL, followed by multitudes.

DANIEL.

Hail, great Darius!

DARIUS.

D A R I U S.

Dost thou live indeed?

And live unhurt?

A R A S P E S.

O, miracle of joy!

D A R I U S.

I scarce can trust my eyes! How didst thou 'scape?

D A N I E L.

That bright and glorious Being, who vouchsaf'd
 Presence divine, when the three martyr'd brothers
 Effay'd the caldron's flame, supported me!
 Ev'n in the furious lions' dreadful den,
 The prisoner of hope, even there I turn'd
 To the strong hold, the bulwark of my strength,
 Ready to hear, and mighty to redeem!

D A R I U S.

[To Araspes.]

Where is Pharnaces! Take the hoary traitor;
 Take too Soranus, and the chief abettors
 Of this dire edict. Let not one escape.
 The punishment their deep-laid hate devis'd
 For holy Daniel, on their heads shall fall
 With tenfold vengeance. To the lions' den
 I doom his vile accusers! All their wives,
 Their children too, shall share one common fate!
 Take care that none escape.—Go, good Araspes.

D A N I E L.

[Araspes goes out.]

Not so, Darius.

O spare the guiltless; spare the guilty too!
 Where sin is not, to punish were unjust;

And.

And where sin is, O king! there fell remorse
Supplies the place of punishment!

DARIUS.

No more!
My word is past! Not one request, save this,
Shalt thou e'er make in vain. Approach, my friends,
Araspes has already spread the tale,
And see, what crowds advance.

PEOPLE.

Long live Darius!
Long live great Daniel too, the people's friend!

DARIUS.

Draw near, my subjects. See this holy man!
Death had no pow'r to harm him. Yon fell band
Of famish'd lions, soften'd at his sight,
Forgot their nature, and grew tame before him.
The mighty GOD protects his servants thus!
The righteous thus he rescues from the snare
Of death; while fraud's artificer shall fall
In the deep gulf his wily arts devise,
To snare the innocent!

A COURIER.

To the same den
Araspes bears Pharnaces and his friends;
Fall'n is their insolence! With pray'r's and tears,
And all the meanness of high-crested pride,
When adverse fortune frowns, they beg for life.
Araspes will not hear. "You heard not me,
He cries, when I for Daniel's life implor'd;

His

'His God protected him! see now, if yours
Will listen to your cries?"

D A R I U S.

Now hear,

People, and nations! languages and realms!
O'er whom I rule; Peace be within your walls!
That I may banish from the minds of men
The rash decree gone out; hear me resolve
To counteract its force by one more just.
In ev'ry kingdom of my wide-stretch'd realm,
From fair Chaldea to the extremest bound
Of northern Media, be my edict sent,
And this my statute known. My heralds haste,
And spread my royal mandate thro' the land,
That all my subjects bow the ready knee
To Daniel's GOD—for he alone is LORD.
Let all adore, and tremble at his name,
Who sits in glory unapproachable
Above the heav'ns—above the heav'n of heavens!
His pow'r is everlasting; and his throne,
Founded in equity and truth, shall last
Beyond the bounded reign of time and space,
Thro' wide eternity! With his right-arm
He saves, and who opposes? He defends,
And who shall injure? In the perilous den
He rescued Daniel from the lions' mouth!
His common deeds are wonders, and his works,
One ever-during chain of miracles!

Enter A R A S P E S.

A R A S P E S.

All hail, O king! Darius live for ever!
May all thy foes be as Pharnaces is!

D A R I U S.

DARIUS.

Araspes, speak ?

ARASPESS.

O, let me spare the tale ! —

'Tis full of horror ! Dreadful was the fight !
The hungry lions, greedy for their prey,
Devour'd the wretched princes, ere they reach'd
The bottom of the den.

DARIUS.

Now, now confess,

'Twas some superior hand restrain'd their rage,
And tam'd their furious appetites.

PEOPLE.

'Tis true !

The God of Daniel is a mighty God !
He saves, and he destroys.

ARASPESS.

O, friend ! O, Daniel !

No wav'ring doubts can ever more disturb
My settled faith.

DANIEL.

To God be all the glory !

Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die.

ISAIAH, xxxviii.

W H A T, and no more?—Is this my soul, said I,
 My whole of being?—Must I surely die?
 Be robb'd at once of health, of strength, of time,
 Of youth's fair promise, and of pleasure's prime?
 Shall I no more behold the face of morn,
 The cheerful day-light, and the spring's return?
 Must I the festive bow'r, the banquet leave,
 For the dull chambers of the darksome grave?

Have

Have I consider'd what it is to die ?
 In native dust with kindred worms to lie ;
 To sleep in cheerless cold neglect ; to rot ;
 My body loath'd, my very name forgot !
 Not one of all those parasites, who bend
 The supple knee, their monarch to attend !
 What, not one friend ! No, not an hireling slave,
 Shall hail GREAT HEZEKIAH in the grave !
 Where's he, who falsely claim'd the name of Great ?
 Whose eye was terror, and whose frown was fate ;
 Who aw'd an hundred nations from the throne ?
 See where he lies, dumb, friendless, and alone !
 Which grain of dust proclaims the noble birth ?
 Which is the royal particle of earth ?
 Where are the marks, the princely ensigns where ?
 Which is the slave, and which great David's heir ?
 Alas ! the beggar's ashes are not known
 From his, who lately sat on Israel's throne !

How stands my great account ? My soul, survey
 'The debt ETERNAL JUSTICE bids thee pay !
 Shou'd I frail Memory's records strive to blot,
 Will Heav'n's tremendous reck'ning be forgot ?
 Can I, alas ! the awful volume tear ?
 Or raze one page of the dread register ?

“ Prepare thy house, thy heart in order set ;
 “ Prepare, the Judge of Heaven and Earth to meet.”
 So spake the warning Prophet.—Awful words !
 Which fearfully my troubled soul records.
Am I prepar'd ? and can I meet my doom,
Nor shudder at the dreaded wrath to come ?

Is all in order set, my house, my heart?
Does no besetting sin still claim a part?
Does no one cherish'd vice, with ling'ring pace,
Reluctant leave me to the work of grace?
Did I each day for this great day prepare,
By righteous deeds, by sin-subduing pray'r?
Did I each night, each day's offence repent,
And each unholy thought and word lament?
Still have these ready hands th' afflicted fed,
And minister'd to Want her daily bread?
The cause, I knew not, did I well explore?
Friend, advocate, and parent of the poor?
Did I, to gratify some sudden gust
Of thoughtless appetite; some impious lust
Of pleasure or of power, such sums employ
As wou'd have crown'd pale penury with joy?
Did I in groves forbidden altars raise,
Or molten Gods adore, or idols praise?
Did my firm faith to Heav'n still point the way?
Did charity to man my actions sway?
Did meek eye'd Patience all my steps attend?
Did gen'rous Candour mark me for her friend?
Did I unjustly seek to build my name
On the pil'd ruins of another's fame?
Did I, like hell, abhor th' infidious lie,
The low deceit, th' unmanly calumny?
Did my fix'd soul the impious wit detest?
Did my firm virtue scorn th' unhallow'd jest;
The sneer profane, and the poor ridicule
Of shallow Infidelity's dull school?
Did I still live as born one day to die,
And view th' eternal world with constant eye?

If so I liv'd, if so I kept thy word,
 In mercy view, in mercy hear me, LORD!
 My holiest deeds indulgence will require,
 The best but to forgiveness will aspire;
 If thou my purest services regard,
 'Twill be with pardon only, not reward!

How imperfection's stamp'd on all below!
 How sin intrudes on all we say or do!
 How late in all the insolence of health,
 I charm'd th' Affyrian * by my boast of wealth!
 How fondly, with elab'rate pomp, display'd
 My glitt'ring treasures! with what triumph laid
 My gold and gems before his dazzled eyes,
 And found a rich reward in his surprise!
 O, mean of soul! can wealth elate the heart,
 Which of the man himself is not a part?
 O, poverty of pride! O, foul disgrace!
 Disgusted Reason, blushing, hides her face.
 Mortal, and proud! strange contradicting terms!
 Pride for Death's victim, for the prey of worms!
 Of all the wonders which th' eventful life
 Of man presents; of all the mental strife
 Of warring passions; all the raging fires
 Of furious appetites, and mad desires,
 Not one so strange appears as this alone,
 That man is proud of what is not his own.

How

* This is an anachronism. Hezekiah did not shew his treasures to the Affyrian till after his recovery from his sickness.

How short is human life! the very breath,
 Which frames my words, accelerates my death.
 Of this short life how large a portion's fled!
 To what is gone I am already dead;
 As dead to all my years and minutes past,
 As I, to what remains, shall be at last.
 Can I my cares and pains so far forget,
 To view my vanish'd years with fond regret?
 Can I again my worn-out fancy cheat?
 Indulge fresh hope? solicit new deceit?
 Of all the vanities weak man admires,
 Which greatness gives, or sanguine youth desires,
 Of these, my soul, which hast thou not enjoy'd?
 With each, with all, thy fated pow'rs are cloy'd.
 What can I then expect from length of days?
 More wealth, more wisdom, pleasure, health, or praise?
 More pleasure! hope not that, deluded king!
 For when did age increase of pleasure bring?
 Is health, of years prolong'd the common boast?
 And dear-earn'd praise, is it not cheaply lost?
 More wisdom! that indeed were happiness;
 That were a wish a king might well confess:
 But when did Wisdom covet length of days?
 Or seek its bliss in pleasure, wealth, or praise?
 No:—Wisdom views with an indifferent eye
 All finite joys, all blessings born to die.
 The soul on earth is an immortal guest,
 Compell'd to starve at an unreal feast:
 A spark, which upward tends by nature's force;
 A stream, diverted from its parent source;
 A drop, dissever'd from the boundless sea;
 A moment, parted from eternity;

A pilgrim, panting for the rest to come ?
 An exile, anxious for his native home. //

'Why shou'd I ask my forfeit life to save ?
 Is Heav'n unjust, which dooms me to the grave ?
 Was I with hope of endless days deceiv'd ?
 Or of lov'd life am I alone bereav'd ?
 Let all the great, the rich, the learn'd, the wise,
 Let all the shades of Judah's monarchs rise ;
 And say, if genius, learning, empire, wealth,
 Youth, beauty, virtue, strength, renown, or health,
 Has once revers'd th' immutable decree
 On Adam pass'd, of man's mortality ?
 What—have these eyes ne'er seen the felon worm
 The damask cheek devour, the finish'd form ?
 On the pale rose of blasted beauty feed,
 And riot on the lip so lately red ?
 Where are our fathers ? Where th' illustrious line
 Of holy prophets, and of men divine ?
 Live they for ever ? Do they shun the grave ?
 Or when did Wisdom its professor save ?
 When did the brave escape ? When did the breath
 Of Eloquence charm the dull ear of Death ?
 When did the cunning argument avail,
 The polish'd period, or the varnish'd tale ;
 The eye of lightning, or the soul of fire,
 Which thronging thousands crowded to admire ?
 Ev'n while we praise the verse, the poet dies ;
 And silent as his lyre great David lies.
 Thou, bless'd Isaiah ! who, at God's command,
 Now speak'st repentance to a guilty land,

Must die! as wise and good thou hadst not been,
As Nebat's son, who taught the land to sin!

And shall I, then, be spar'd? O monstrous pride!
Shall I escape, when Solomon has died?
If all the worth of all the saints was vain—
Peace, peace, my troubled soul, nor dare complain!
LORD! I submit. Complete thy gracious will!
For if Thou slay me *, I will trust Thee still.
O be my will so swallow'd up in thine,
That I may do thy will in doing mine.

* Job.

POETICAL EPISTLE

TO THE

HON. MRS. BOSCAWEN.*

Spirits are not finely touch'd
 But to fine issues. ————— SHAKESPEARE.

ACCEPT, Boscawen ! these unpolish'd lays,
 Nor blame too much the verse you cannot praise.
 For you far other bards have wak'd the string ;
 Far other bards for you were wont to sing.
 Yet on the gale their parting music steals,
 Yet, your charm'd ear the lov'd impression feels.
 You heard the lyres of LYTTLETON and YOUNG ;
 And this a Grace, and that a Seraph strung.

Z

These

* This little Poem was sent several years ago, as an Epistle, to the honoured Friend to whom it is inscribed. It has since been enlarged ; and several passages have been added, or altered, as circumstances required.

These are no more ! But not with these decline
 The Attic chasteness, and the flame divine.
 Still, sad * Elfrida's Poet shall complain,
 And either WARTON breathe his classic strain.
 Nor fear lest genuine poesy expire,
 While tuneful BEATTIE wakes old Spenser's lyre.
 His sympathetic lay his soul reveals,
 And paints the perfect Bard from what he feels.

Illustrious LOWTH † ! for him the muses wove,
 The fairest garland from the greenest grove.
 Tho' Latian bards had gloried in his name,
 When in full brightness burnt the Latian flame :
 Yet, fir'd with nobler hopes than transient Bays,
 He scorn'd the meed of perishable praise ;
 Spurn'd the cheap wreath by human science won,
 Borne on the wing sublime of Amos' son :
 He seiz'd his mantle as the Prophet flew,
 And with his mantle caught his spirit too.

To snatch bright beauty from devouring fate,
 And bid it boast with him a deathless date ;
 To shew how Genius fires, how Taste restrains,
 While what both are his pencil best explains,
 Have we not REYNOLDS ‡ ? Lives not JENYNS yet,
 To prove his lowest title was a Wit ?
 Tho' purer flames thy hallow'd zeal inspire
 Than e'er were kindled at the Muse's fire ;

Thee,

* Milton calls Euripides —— Sad Electra's Poet.

† The Bishop of London.

‡ See his Discourses to the Academy.

Thee, mitred * CHESTER ! all the Nine shall boast :
And is not JOHNSON theirs, himself an host ?

Yes :—still for you your gentle stars dispense
The charm of friendship, and the feast of sense.
Yours is the bliss, and Heav'n no dearer sends,
To call the wisest, brightest, best—your friends.

With CARTER trace the wit to Athens known,
Or find in MONTAGU that wit our own.
Or, pleas'd, attend CHAPONE's instructive page ;
Which charms her own, and forms the rising age.
Or boast in WALSINGHAM the various pow'r,
To sooth the lonely, grace the letter'd hour ;
To polish'd life its highest charm she gives,
Whose song is music, and whose canvass lives.
DELANY shines, in worth serenely bright,
Wisdom's strong ray, and Virtue's milder light ;
And she who blest'd the friend, and grac'd the page
Of Swift, still lends her lustre to our age :
Long, long protract thy light, O star benign !
Whose setting beams with added brightness shine !

O, much-lov'd BARBAULD ! shall my heart refuse
Its tribute to thy Virtues and thy Muse ?
While round thy brow the Poet's wreath I twine,
This humble merit shall at least be mine,
In all thy praise to take a gen'rous part ;
Thy laurels bind thee closer to my heart :

* See the Bishop's admirable Poem on Death.

My verse thy merits to the world shall teach,
And love the genius it despairs to reach.

Yet, what is wit, and what the Poet's art?
Can Genius shield the vulnerable heart?
Ah, no! where bright imagination reigns,
The fine wrought-spirit feels acuter pains:
Where glow exalted sense, and taste refin'd,
There keener anguish rankles in the mind:
There feeling is diffus'd thro' ev'ry part,
Thrills in each nerve, and lives in all the heart:
And those, whose gen'rous souls each tear wou'd keep
From others' eyes, are born themselves to weep.

Say, can the boasted pow'rs of wit and song,
Of life one pang remove, one hour prolong?
Presumptuous hope! which daily truths deride;
For you, alas! have wept—and GARRICK dy'd!
Ne'er shall my heart his lov'd remembrance lose,
Guide, critic, guardian, glory of my muse!
Oh, shades of Hampton! witness as I mourn,
Cou'd wit or song elude his destin'd urn?
Tho' living virtue still your haunts endears,
Yet bury'd worth shall justify my tears!
GARRICK! those pow'rs which form a friend were thine;
And let me add, with pride, that friend was mine:
With pride! at once the vain emotion's fled;
Far other thoughts are sacred to the dead.

Who now with spirit keen, yet judgment cool,
Th' unequal wand'rings of my muse shall rule?
Whose partial praise my worthless verse ensure?
For Candor smil'd, when GARRICK wou'd endure.

If harsher critics were compell'd to blame,
 I gain'd in friendship what I lost in fame ;
 And friendship's fast'ring smiles can well repay
 What critic rigour justly takes away.
 With keen acumen how his piercing eye
 The fault, conceal'd from vulgar view, wou'd spy !
 While with a gen'rous warmth he strove to hide,
 Nay vindicate, the fault his judgment spied.
 So pleas'd, cou'd he detect a happy line,
 That he wou'd fancy merit ev'n in mine.
 Oh gen'rous error, when by friendship bred !
 His praises flatter'd me, but not misled.

No narrow views cou'd bound his lib'ral mind ;
 His friend was man, his party human kind.
 Agreed in this, opposing statesmen strove
 Who most shou'd gain his praise, or court his love.
 His worth all hearts as to one centre drew ;
 Thus Tully's Atticus was Cæsar's too.

His wit so keen it never mis'd its end ;
 So blameless too, it never lost a friend ;
 So chaste, that Modesty ne'er learn'd to fear ;
 So pure, Religion might unwounded hear.

How his quick mind, strong pow'rs, and ardent heart,
 Impoverish'd nature, and exhausted art,
 A brighter bard records *, a deathless muse !—
 But I his talents in his virtues lose :

Great

* Mr. Sheridan's Monody.

Great parts are Nature's gift; but that he shone
 Wife, moral, good and virtuous—was his own.
 Tho' Time his silent hand across has stole,
 Soft'ning the tints of sorrow on the soul;
 The deep impression long my heart shall fill,
 And every mellow'd trace be perfect still.

Forgive, Boscawen, if my sorrowing heart,
 Intent on grief, forget the rules of art;
 Forgive, if wounded recollection melt—
 You best can pardon who have oft'nest felt.
 You, who for many a friend and hero mourn,
 Who bend in anguish o'er the frequent turn;
 You, who have found how much the feeling heart
 Shapes its own wound, and points itself the dart;
 You, who from tender sad experience feel
 The wounds such minds receive can never heal;
 That grief a thousand entrances can find,
 Where parts superior dignify the mind;
 Wou'd you renounce the pangs those feelings give,
 Secure in joyless apathy to live?

For tho' in souls, where taste and sense abound,
 Pain thro' a thousand avenues can wound;
 Yet the same avenues are open still,
 To casual blessings as to casual ill.
 Nor is the trembling temper more awake
 To every wound which misery can make,
 Than is the finely-fashion'd nerve alive
 To every transport pleasure has to give.
 For if, when home-felt joys the mind elate,
 It mourns in secret for another's fate;

Yet

Yet when its own sad griefs invade the breast,
 Abroad, in others blessings, see it blest !
 Ev'n the soft sorrow of remember'd woe
 A not unpleasing sadness may bestow.

Let not the vulgar read this pensive strain,
 Their jests the tender anguish wou'd profane :
 Yet these some deem the happiest of their kind,
 Whose low enjoyments never reach'd the mind ;
 Who ne'er a pain but for themselves have known,
 Nor ever felt a sorrow but their own ;
 Who call romantic every finer thought,
 Conceive'd by pity, or by friendship wrought.
 Ah ! wherefore happy ? where's the kindred mind ?
 Where, the large soul that takes in human kind ?
 Where, the best passions of the mortal breast ?
 Where, the warm blessing when another's blest ?
 Where, the soft lenitives of others' pain,
 The social sympathy, the sense humane ?
 The sigh of rapture, and the tear of joy,
 Anguish that charms, and transports that destroy ?
 For tender Sorrow has her pleasures too ;
 Pleasures, which prosp'rous Dulness never knew.
 She never knew, in all her coarser blis,
 The sacred rapture of a pain like this !
 Nor think, the cautious only are the just ;
 Who never was deceiv'd I wou'd not trust.
 Then take, ye happy vulgar ! take your part
 Of sordid joy, which never touch'd the heart.
 Benevolence, which seldom stays to chuse,
 Lett pausing Prudence teach her to refuse ;
 Friendshi; which once determin'd, never swerves,
 Weighs ere it trusts, but weighs not ere it serves ;

And soft-ey'd Pity, and Forgiveness bland,
 And melting Charity with open hand ;
 And artless Love, believing and believ'd,
 And gen'rous Confidence which ne'er deceiv'd ;
 And Mercy stretching out, ere Want can speak,
 To wipe the tear from pale Affliction's cheek ;
 These ye have never known !—then take your part
 Of sordid joy, which never touch'd the heart.

Ye, who have melted in bright Glory's flame,
 Or felt the spirit-stirring breath of fame !
 Ye noble few ! in whom her promis'd meed
 Wakes the great thought, and makes the wish the deed !
 Ye, who have tasted the delight to give,
 And, God's own agents, bid the wretched live ;
 Who the chill haunts of Desolation seek,
 Raise the sunk heart, and flush the fading cheek !
 Ye, who, with pensive Petrarch, love to mourn,
 Or weave fresh chaplets for Tibullus' urn ;
 Who cherish both in Hammond's plaintive lay,
 The Provence myrtle, and the Roman bay !
 Ye, who divide the joys, and share the pains
 Which merit feels, or Heav'n-born Fancy feigns ;
 Wou'd you renounce such joys, such pains as these,
 For vulgar pleasures, or for selfish ease ?
 Wou'd you, to 'scape the pain the joy forego ;
 And miss the transport, to avoid the woe ?
 Wou'd you the sense of real sorrow lose,
 Or cease to woo the melancholy Muse ?
 No, Greville * ! no !—Thy song tho' steep'd in tears,
 Tho' all thy soul in all thy strain appears ;

Yet

* See the beautiful Ode to Indifference.

Yet wou'dst thou all thy well-sung anguish chuse,
And all th' inglorious peace thou begg'st, refuse.

Or you, BOSCAWEN! when you fondly melt,
In raptures none but mothers ever felt;
And view, enamour'd, in your beauteous race,
All LEVESEN's sweetnes, and all BEAUFORT's grace;
Yet think what dangers each lov'd child may share,
The youth if valiant, and the maid if fair;
That perils multiply as blessings flow,
And constant sorrows on enjoyments grow:
You, who have felt how fugitive is joy,
That while we clasp the phantom we destroy;
That life's bright sun is dimm'd by clouded views,
And who have most to love have most to lose;
Yet from these fair possestions wou'd you part,
To shield from future pain your guarded heart?
Wou'd your fond mind renounce its tender boast,
Or wish their op'ning bloom of promise lost?
Yield the dear hopes, which break upon your view,
For all the quiet, Dulnes ever knew?
Debase the objects of your tend'rest pray'r,
To save the dangers of a distant care?
Consent, to shun the anxious fears you prove;
They less shou'd merit, or you less shou'd love?

Yet, while I hail the Sympathy Divine,
Which makes, O man! the wants of others thine:
I mourn heroic JUSTICE, scarcely own'd,
And PRINCIPLE for SENTIMENT dethron'd.
While FEELING boasts her ever-tearful eye,
Stern TRUTH, firm FAITH, and manly VIRTUE fly.

Sweet SENSIBILITY! thou soothing pow'r,
 Who shedd'st thy blessings on the natal hour,
 Like fairy favours! Art can never seize,
 Nor Affectation catch thy pow'r to please:
 Thy subtile essence still eludes the chains
 Of Definition, and defeats her pains.
 Sweet Sensibility! thou keen delight!
 Thou hasty moral! sudden sense of right!
 Thou untaught goodness! Virtue's precious seed!
 Thou sweet precursor of the gen'rous deed!
 Beauty's quick relish! Reason's radiant morn,
 Which dawns soft light before Reflexion's born!
 To those who know thee not, no words can paint!
 And those who know thee, know all words are faint!
 'Tis not to mourn because a sparrow dies;
 To rave in artificial ecstasies:
 'Tis not to melt in tender Otway's fires;
 'Tis not to faint, when injur'd Shore expires:
 'Tis not because the ready eye o'erflows
 At Clementina's, or Clarissa's woes.

Forgive, O RICHARDSON! nor think I mean,
 With cold contempt, to blast thy peerless scene:
 If some faint love of virtue glow in me,
 Pure spirit! I first caught that flame from thee.

While soft Compassion silently relieves,
 Loquacious Feeling hints how much she gives;
 Laments how oft her wounded heart has bled,
 And boasts of many a tear she never shed.

As words are but th' external marks, to tell
 The fair ideas in the mind that dwell;

And

And only are of things the outward sign,
 And not the things themselves, they but define ;
 So exclamations, tender tones, fond tears,
 And all the graceful drapery Pity wears ;
 These are not Pity's self, they but express
 Her inward sufferings by their pictur'd dress ;
 And these fair marks, reluctant I relate,
 These lovely symbols may be counterfeit.
 Celestial Pity ! why must I deplore,
 Thy sacred image stamp'd on basest ore ?
 There are, who fill with brilliant plaints the page,
 If a poor linnet meet the gunner's rage :
 There are, who for a dying fawn display
 The tend'rest anguish in the sweetest lay ;
 Who for a wounded animal deplore,
 As if friend, parent, country were no more ;
 Who boast quick rapture trembling in their eye,
 If from the spider's snare they save a fly ;
 Whose well-fung sorrows every breast inflame,
 And break all hearts but his from whom they came ;
 Yet, scorning life's dull duties to attend,
 Will persecute a wife, or wrong a friend ;
 Alive to every woe by fiction dress'd ;
 The innocent he wrong'd, the wretch distress'd,
 May plead in vain ; their suff'rings come not near,
 Or he relieves them cheaply, with a tear.
 Not so the tender moralist * of Tweed ;
 His Man of Feeling is a man indeed.

Oh,

* Mr. Mackenzie, author of the Mirror, Man of Feeling, &c.

Oh, bless'd Compassion! Angel Charity!
 More dear one genuine deed perform'd for thee,
 Than all the periods Feeling e'er can turn,
 Than all thy soothing pages, polish'd STERNE!

Not that by deeds alone this love's express'd,
 If so, the affluent only were the blest.
 One silent wish, one pray'r, one soothing word,
 The precious page of Mercy shall record ;
 One soul-felt sigh by pow'rless Pity giv'n,
 Accepted incense ! shall ascend to Heav'n.

Since trifles make the sum of human things,
 And half our mis'ry from our foibles springs ;
 Since life's best joys consist in peace and ease,
 And few can save or serve, but all may please ;
 Oh ! let th' ungentle spirit learn from hence,
 A small unkindness is a great offence.
 Large bounties to bestow we wish in vain,
 But all may shun the guilt of giving pain.
 To bless mankind with tides of flowing wealth,
 With pow'r to grace them, or to crown with health,
 Our little lot denies ; but Heav'n decrees
 To all, the gift of minist'ring to ease.
 The gentle offices of patient love,
 Beyond all flatt'ry, and all price above ;
 The mild forbearance at another's fault,
 The taunting word, suppress'd as soon as thought ;
 On these Heav'n bade the bliss of life depend,
 And crush'd ill-fortune when he made a FRIEND.

A solitary blessing few can find,
 Our joys with those we love are intertwin'd ;

And

And he, whose helpful tenderness removes
 Th' obstructing thorn which wounds the breast he loves,
 Smooths not another's rugged path alone,
 But scatters roses to adorn his own.

The hint malevolent, the look oblique,
 The obvious satire, or implied dislike ;
 The sneer equivocal, the harsh reply,
 And all the cruel language of the eye ;
 The artful injury, whose venom'd dart,
 Scarce wounds the hearing while it stabs the heart ;
 The guarded phrase whose meaning kills, yet told,
 The list'ner wonders how you thought it cold ;
 Small flights, contempt, neglect unmix'd with hate,
 Make up in number what they want in weight.
 These, and a thousand griefs minute as these,
 Corrode our comfort, and destroy our ease.

As this strong feeling tends to good or ill,
 It gives fresh pow'r to vice or principle ;
 'Tis not peculiar to the wise and good ;
 'Tis passion's flame, the virtue of the blood.
 But to divert it to its proper course,
 There Wisdom's pow'r appears, there Reason's force ;
 If, ill-directed, it pursues the wrong,
 It adds new strength to what before was strong ;
 Breaks out in wild irregular desires,
 Disorder'd passions, and illicit fires.
 But if the virtuous bias rule the soul,
 This lovely feeling then adorns the whole ;
 Sheds its sweet sunshine on the moral part,
 Nor wastes on fancy what shou'd warm the heart.

Cold and inert the mental pow'rs would lie,
 Without this quick'ning spark of Deity.
 To draw the rich materials from the mine,
 To bid the mass of intellect refine ;
 To melt the firm, to animate the cold,
 And Heav'n's own impress stamp on nature's gold ;
 To give immortal MIND its finest tone,
 Oh, SENSIBILITY ! is all thy own.
 THIS is th' ethereal flame which lights and warms,
 In song transports us, and in action charms.
 'Tis THIS that makes the pensive strains of GRAY *
 Win to the open heart their easy way.
 Makes the touch'd spirit glow with kindred fire,
 When sweet SERENA's † poet wakes the lyre.
 'Tis THIS, tho' Nature's hidden treasures lie,
 Bare to the keen inspection of her eye,
 Makes PORTLAND's face its brightest rapture wear,
 When her large bounty smooths the bed of care.
 'Tis THIS that breathes thro' SEVIGNE's sweet page,
 That nameless grace which soothes a second age.
 'Tis THIS, whose charms the soul resistless seize,
 And gives BOSCAWEN half her pow'r to please.

Yet,

* This is meant of the Elegy in a Country Church-yard ; of which exquisite Poem, Sensibility is, perhaps, the characteristic beauty.

† Triumphs of Temper.

Yet, why those terrors? why that anxious care,
Since your last † hope the deathful war will dare?
Why dread that energy of soul which leads
To dang'rous glory by heroic deeds?
Why tremble lest this ardent soul aspire?—
You fear the son because you knew the sire.
Hereditary valour you deplore,
And dread, yet wish to find one hero more.

† Viscount Falmouth, Admiral Boscawen's only remaining son, was then in America, and at the battle of Lexington.
